

PEACE HINGES ON MEXICAN CHOICE

By Associated Press.

Niagara Falls, June 25.—Peace between the United States and Mexico rests today on a single condition, the establishment of a new provisional government along the lines which will justify work in according it recognition.

Mexican factions have given guaranty that they will extend every effort to earn this reward. Upon the representatives of the two warring factions, the Constitutionalists and the Huerta government, devolves the task now of selecting a provisional president and his cabinet to serve in the interim while the country is being pacified and made ready for a general presidential election.

CARRANZA'S EAR WILL BE ON GROUND

Washington, June 25.—Carranza's plan to proceed at once from Saltillo to the American border at Nuevo-Laredo, is with the chief purpose of being in direct telegraphic communication with his agents in the United States when they begin negotiations with the Huerta delegates.

The agents of the Constitutionalists here today expressed the opinion that the conference probably would begin Monday or early next week, at the latest. Where it would be held was not determined. Buffalo was suggested, but it was pointed out that the Huerta delegates might object to negotiations, even informally, on American soil. Niagara-on-the-Lake also has been suggested.

BUTTE FEARS MOB VIOLENCE

By Associated Press.

Butte, Mont., June 25.—The announcement in Helena last night of Charles H. Moyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners, that he intended to return to Butte, caused a sensation here today when citizens read the interview. Men connected with the vigilantes openly said that if Moyer should return without protection his life would be in danger. They said if Moyer appeared here or attempted to assert

ZACATECAS STREWN WITH MEXICAN DEAD

By Associated Press.

Zacatecas, Mexico, June 25.—delayed in transmission over military wires.—The fiercest fighting on both sides, and an unusually high loss of life to both Federals and Constitutionalists, ended last night in the capture of Zacatecas by General Villal's forces. It required four days to take the Federal stronghold of central Mexico.

The Federals, under General Medina Barron, defended their position stubbornly but they finally were overcome by the forces of Villa and General Natera.

The Constitutionalist soldiers scaled hill after hill and mountain after mountain killing and wounding thousands of Federals and themselves suffering heavy losses.

So far it has been impossible to obtain any accurate estimate of the losses on both sides. The heaps of dead on the mountain sides and in the city bore testimony of the ferocity of the fighting.

the jurisdiction of the Western Federation of Miners, that certain men connected with the insurgents of the old union would again resort to armed resistance.

CONFIRMS FALL OF ZACATECAS

Washington, June 25.—Official dispatches from Consular Agent Carothers and Consul Edwards, at El Paso, reporting the taking of Zacatecas by General Villa, were received here today.

LAWRENCE "CHIPPY" ROBINSON.

ALLEGED SLAYER OF FOUR FACES THE ELECTRIC CHAIR

The accompanying pictures are of Lawrence "Chippy" Robinson, who now languishes in the Boston city prison under heavy guard, indicted for the cold-blooded murder of Police Inspector Thomas Norton, and wanted in Grand Rapids, Mich., for shooting down three jewelry clerks who offered resistance while Robinson and a companion were robbing the store.

The pictures were taken while Robinson was a convict, presumably in the Kentucky penitentiary. Similar pictures were sent broadcast throughout the United States by the Pinkerton Detective Agency.

Robinson obtained the name of "Chippy" through his love for diamonds, and is known among his pals as "Diamond Chip" and "Chippy Rob". Some of the half score aliases under which Robinson went are: George Roberts, Albert Adams, Geo. Spencer, Walter E. Spencer, Albert Scott and Harry Burton.

When arrested in Boston Robinson was dressed in the height of fashion, and had been associating with Boston's "Four Hundred". Dispatches from Boston state that he had been attentive to seven well known Boston girls during his few weeks in Boston, and that he had posed as a bachelor.

The same dispatch from Boston states that the man's aged mother was on her way to Boston to lead the fight in her son's defense.

Thursday morning, in a conversation with his heart-broken mother in this city, she stated that she did not intend to go to Boston, as she did not believe she could do her son any good.

Several copies of Boston newspapers, received by Mr. B. F. Leland from his son, Ed Leland, in Boston, give full details of the proceedings in Boston, and the Robinson case has proven the sensation of the year.

One snapshot taken of the man when he was in the hands of the officers shows him holding his hands over his face to prevent it showing in the picture.

The statement was carried by one of the papers that the man had plenty of money on his person when arrested, and that there would, in all probability, be a deluge of money sent by pals to assist him in fighting the case. He is regarded as one of the biggest crooks in the United States. A picture of one of the girls with whom he had been keeping company is shown in one of the papers.

1 KILLED TWENTY INJURED

By Associated Press.

Lorain, O., June 25.—One man was killed, another fatally injured and twenty other persons were seriously hurt today, when an eastbound car on the Lake Shore Electric Railway got beyond control on the street grade leading to the subway under the Nickel Plate Railroad tracks, two miles west of here, jumped the track and tipped over.

The dead man, Motorman Elias Hopp, died at a hospital soon after the accident. He stuck to his post vainly trying to use the air brakes which refused to work.

The big interurban, as it jumped the track and rolled over, crashed against the concrete wall of the tunnel, the front half being reduced to tinder. Most of the passengers were returning from picnics. All on board were cut or bruised.

This is the second serious wreck occurring in the same spot in the last few years, the first taking place under identical circumstances.

DEATH REAPS RICH HARVEST

By Associated Press.

Los Angeles, June 25.—At the foot of a hundred-foot bluff on the ocean beach near San Pedro, Cal., the bodies of three women and a man, victims of an automobile accident, were found today. The automobile, a new car driven by Harry Baker, of San Pedro, had plunged over the bluff late last night, killing the four. It was Baker's first trip in the machine.

WANT VOTE ON MONDAY

By Associated Press.

Columbus, June 25.—Plans for campaigns in every state, and with the Federal government, to change voting days from Tuesday to Monday, were formulated today by the Supreme Council of United Commercial Travelers, in session here. More than 100,000 of the 150,000 members of the order in the country, are virtually disenfranchised by the present voting day because they cannot remain at their homes until Tuesday, officials said.

COBB PAID STIFF FINE

By Associated Press.

Detroit, Mich., June 25.—Ty Cobb the widely known baseball player, pleaded guilty today to a charge of disturbing the peace in Justice court, and paid a $50 fine. Had he not paid he would have had to stand 6 months in the house of correction. The charge was made against Cobb by William L. Carpenter, in whose meat shop the ballplayer caused the disturbance Saturday night.

CRASHING FAILURE OF BIG RETAILERS

By Associated Press.

New York, June 25.—The great dry goods house of The H. B. Chaffin Company failed today with liabilities of $35,000,000. The assets are estimated at $40,000,000. Two proceedings, friendly and unfriendly, threw the firm into bankruptcy and two receivers were named under bonds of $500,000 each.

The Chaffin company controls, or is affiliated with some thirty retail stores throughout the United States, and it was the endorsement of their paper, held by more than 3,000 banks here and in interior cities, that caused the crash.

The United Dry Goods Companies and the Associated Merchants' Company, though affiliated with the Chaffin Company through stock control, were in no way involved in the failure. Their chain of stores, it was said in financial districts would remain intact. Unless blocked by creditors, a reorganization of the firm is contemplated, according to a statement issued by John Chaffin, the president.

The court acted as the result of a suit in equity filed in the District Court. Judge Hand named as receivers, Joseph B. Martindale, president of the Chemical National Bank and Frederick A. Juillard, a member of the firm of A. B. Juillard and Company, under bonds of $500,000 each.

The H. B. Chaffin Company, of which John Chaffin is president, was organized in 1890 to conduct a wholesale dry goods business. It is controlled by the Associated Merchants Company which is in turn controlled by the United Dry Goods Companies. The United Dry Goods Companies was incorporated May 21, 1909, to consolidate the dry goods interests of John Chaffin in New York and other cities. The company acquired, in exchange for $9,813,000 of its common stock, a like amount of the capital stock of the Associated Merchants Company, giving it a majority, the latter already holding control of the H. B. Chaffin company. The James McCreery Company, The O'Neill-Adams Company, The C. G. Gunther Sons, all of New York, and several other companies.

The total net income of 1913 was $2,083,781. Dividends on preferred stock were $754,883, and on common stock $1,154,200, a final surplus of $174,698.

Almost simultaneous with the filing of the suit in equity John Muller, William Worth and Albert F. Bergner, all of New York, filed an involuntary petition of bankruptcy against the firm. The company owes Muller, according to the petition, $731. Worth is creditor for $3,131, while Bergner's claim are given as $28,370.

The receivership caused a flurry in the financial district although rumors that something was impending were rife all day yesterday.

Announcement was made this afternoon that all of the so-called Chaffin stores, strictly speaking, would be closed, pending adjustment of the company's affairs.

REACHES MISSOURI

By Associated Press.

Kansas City, June 25.—Alexander New, legal representative here of The H. B. Chaffin Company of New York, was appointed receiver today of the Jones store of this city, the stock of which is owned by the Chaffins.

BIG CROP OF NEW LAWYERS

Columbus, June 25.—Two hundred and twenty-seven students, who took the state bar examinations recently, were sworn in by Chief Justice Nichols of the Supreme court today. Over a score of the successful applicants were unable to be present and will take the oath Saturday.

ACCUSE VETERANS OF PLAYING POLITICS

Complaint comes from Chillicothe that in the election of officers, some of the Spanish American war veterans played "up-state politics", and members of the Chillicothe camp were somewhat peeved because they were completely left out in the election of officers.

The election, scheduled for the afternoon, was held Wednesday morning, presumably upon the call of the Cleveland delegates, and the act was regarded with much ill favor by members of the Chillicothe camp. It is usually a show of appreciation for entertainment, to elect a member of the camp in which the encampment is held, to some minor office, and this was not done. William Wolcott, of Chillicothe, had been slated for senior vice commander.

The following officers were elected: Charles A. Gebauer of Cleveland, Department commander; James E. Oates, Toledo, senior vice commander; Henry Behrens, Middletown, junior vice; Robert Davis, Cincinnati, inspector; Rev. John Frederick, Glendale, chaplain; Henry M. Taylor, Athens, surgeon; Howard Gilbert, Columbus, marshal; Judge M. S. Matthias, Van Wert, judge advocate, and four delegates at large to the National convention at Louisville, John G. DeCamp, Hamilton; David Lynch, Fostoria, John Noll, Cincinnati, and Henry Bailles, Columbus. Mansfield was selected for the encampment next year.

SEES NEW FREEDOM

By Associated Press.

Washington, July 25.—"A new constitution of freedom for business" is the object of the administration trust legislative program, President Wilson declared in addressing a party of Virginia editors at the White House today. He predicted that the country was on the verge of a great business revival.

DEFINITELY AVERT WAR WITH MEXICO

Protocol Signed By American and Mexican Delegates.

Niagara Falls, Ont., June 25.—The first three articles of the peace plan prepared by the A. B. C. group of South American mediators were signed by the American and Mexican delegates. At the end of the conference Envoy Da Gama of Brazil, the ranking diplomat among the mediators, said: "We have signed three articles of the protocol of the plan of pacification concerning the international side of the Mexican problem."

"Before signing that protocol we made a statement that we deemed it advisable to invite the Constitutional party to send delegates to discuss with the Mexican delegates the internal questions of the problem."

The conference will break up today

so far as the mediators are concerned. Ambassador Da Gama will leave in the evening for Long Branch for his summer vacation, but Dr. Naon, the Argentine minister, and Senor Suarez, minister of Chile, will remain here for a few days. Senor Da Gama will not return except if his presence is needed, nor will the other two mediators. All three held that they have accomplished their aim and have definitely averted an international conflict.

The protocol provides for a constitutional government in Mexico, immediate recognition of same on the part of the United States and restoration of diplomatic relations between the two countries; that the United States shall not claim any war indemnity and that the provisional government will grant amnesty to all foreigners for any political offenses committed during the period of the Mexican civil war. The provisional government will negotiate for the settlement of claims of foreigners on account of damages sustained during the period of the civil war.

HOUSE OPPOSES SUMMER SESSION

Washington, June 25.—Opposition to the administration plan to keep congress in session during the summer has taken concrete form in the house. A petition has been circulated by Representative Ashbrook of Ohio praying the committee on rules not to report any more special rules at this time. One hundred and twenty-five Democrats already have signed the petition. If the petition is favorably acted upon by the rules committee, the prohibition amendment and other important measures will be sidetracked for the session. Those who are thus protesting against President Wilson's purpose to force congress to stay in session until fall propose that after the appropriation and conservation bills have been passed the house shall recess for three days at a time until the senate has passed the trust bills. The three day recess plan would enable members to get back to their districts to look after their political fences.

ELECTROCUTED

Cleveland, O., June 25.—When a hod of mortar which he was carrying touched an electric switch at the Fairmount pumping station, Martin Zika was electrocuted. He was held fast five minutes before the current could be shut off.

TOLL OF STORMS

Number of Persons Are Killed and Property Destroyed.

Chicago, June 25.—Seven deaths, scores of persons injured, crop damage amounting to thousands of dollars and heavy damage to buildings were caused in an electrical and windstorm that swept Minnesota and Wisconsin from the northwest. Communication between many cities was cut off on account of the prostration of telegraph and telephone wires. It is feared that a still larger loss of life will be reported when the full extent of the storm is known.

In Minneapolis Miss Loretta Grams, Margaret Kelly and Louis Grams were drowned when the wind overturned their canoe. Esther Munson was killed when her home collapsed.

Two deaths were reported at Wausau, Wis., when a barn in which a country wedding was being celebrated was demolished. Another death was reported from Green Lake, Wis.

The storm struck Watertown, S. D., with its full force and demolished 300 buildings, comprising sixteen city blocks. Scores of persons were reported seriously injured.

Reports from Appleton, Watertown, Wisconsin, Eau Claire, Oshkosh, Wausau, Madison, Fond Du Lac, Marinette and Milwaukee indicate that the property damage will be extensive.

FOUNDRY BURNS

Marion, O., June 25.—The foundry and core room of the Huber Manufacturing company was practically destroyed by fire. The loss will reach $25,000 and several hundred men will be thrown out of work temporarily. Lack of water pressure was responsible for most of the loss.

ASLEEP ON RAILS

Chicago Junction, O., June 25.—L. J. Delong, an employee of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, was run over by a yard engine and killed while sitting asleep on the rails.

ROOSEVELT HOLDS FAST TO PERKINS

Holds Him Most Useful Member of Progressive Party.

HE WON'T HAVE HIM READ OUT

Bull Moose Leader Issues Statement on Political Situation on His Arrival From Europe—Denounces the Colombian Treaty and Foreign Policy of Wilson Administration—Colonel in Good Physical Condition.

New York, June 25.—Colonel Roosevelt, health improved, arrived on the big liner Imperator and was immediately placed on board William H. Childs' yacht Joyance, which took him to Oyster Bay.

With the return of the colonel from his son Kermit's wedding in Spain two questions of extraordinary interest to members of the Progressive party as well as to the older parties were answered by the colonel himself in characteristic fashion.

Will he stand by George W. Perkins, though the Pinchots and other foremost Progressives are reading Mr. Perkins out of the party? He will. He said:

"Mr. Perkins has been on the whole the most useful member of the Progressive party. He has striven in good faith for the principles of the party both as regards corporations and business generally and as regards the group of questions dealing with the welfare of the wage worker and his economic and social advance. As for reading him out of the party, when that is done they will have to read me out, too."

If there was any doubt left as to Colonel Roosevelt's position as to being a candidate for governor, he did his best to shatter them with this laconic statement: "Governor? I thought I had answered that fully. I will not run for governor."

Colonel Roosevelt looked to be in excellent physical condition. "When I came aboard," he said, "I had a slight relapse of fever and a few hours later a severe relapse. At that time my temperature was 105. I had to keep to my rooms. But I am absolutely all right now. I shall speak in Pittsburgh on June 30. I shall be able to make a certain number of speeches indoors."

With regard to the treaty with Colombia Colonel Roosevelt said: "The payment of $25,000,000 to Colombia, together with the expression of what is in effect an apology for our having secured the right to build the Panama canal, is merely the belated payment of blackmail with an apology to the blackmailers. If this proposed treaty submitted by President Wilson through Mr. Bryan is right, then our presence on the isthmus is wrong. In such case Panama should at once be restored to Colombia and we should stop work on the canal and abandon the place, bag and baggage.

"The handling of our foreign affairs by President Wilson and Secretary Bryan has been such as to make the United States a figure of fun in the international world. This proposed Colombian treaty caps the climax."

LAND OF "EL DORADO"

The lure of gold has never been the basis for brave exploits and bold adventure, and often about it has been woven the enticing web of mystery and myth to add to the zest of its pursuit. The ancient Argonauts sailed in search of the mythical Golden Fleece, while the golden apples of the mysterious Hesperides lured on the giant Hercules. The bold Phoenicians sailed to the shores of Spain to gather a golden harvest for the merchant of Syria, and the old Semitic navigators sailed out from the Red Sea to seek it at Tarshish and in the famed mines of Aphir, whose location is even now a mystery. The Portuguese as early as the middle of the 15th century brought gold from the west coast of Africa, and it was to find a sea route to the gold and spice laden shores of the Far East that Vasco de Gama sailed around the Cape of Good Hope and Columbus finally embarked to venture into unknown seas upon that memorable voyage of 1492. The discovery of the New World but added a new stimulus to the unceasing, restless search for wealth, and in the marvelous tales of pearls and jewels rare and glittering golden ornaments decorating simple savages who knew but little of their value, the adventurous and credulous conquistadores saw a glorious land of promise.

Among the most enticing of these tales was the one that Coquitos Indians told the earliest settlers of the colony of Coro, established by Juan de Ampues in 1527 on the narrow isthmus that connects the peninsula of Paragana with the mainland about the Lake of Maracaybo in Venezuela. According to their stories, a tribe of fierce but wealthy Indians dwelt in the mountains some distance to the south, with whom gold was so abundant that they powdered the whole body of their chief with its dust. And thus was started the tale of "El Dorado," the gilded one, a tale which in its repeated telling grew into most wonderful fiction.

The Pennsylvania's Attitude

It is interesting to note that one of the great railroad systems of the country—one which carries on a railroad business and the management of which does not indulge in "plunging" on the stock market, is going ahead with vast improvements, putting on the newest and the latest equipments, new rails and new crossties, reballasting its tracks wherever needed, taking out curves, reducing grades and the like—is taking very little part in the movement for higher rates.

While the management of many other roads are devoting all their time and energy toward convincing the Interstate Commerce Commission that they must be given permission to charge higher rates or the stockholders will not draw their dividends, while the managers of many other railroad systems are permitting their road-beds and rolling stock to run down, failing to handle trains on schedule time and losing a world of business in consequence, the Pennsylvania is handling all of its business and going forward with the work of preparing to handle more business.

The result is inevitable.

The Pennsylvania will be equipped to handle the big rush of business when it comes and the other roads will not. The earnings of the Pennsylvania will be largely increased at the expense of the other roads who fail to keep pace with the changes in business conditions.

The trouble with so many of the other railroads is that the promoters and managers have over-capitalized the companies and made their individual profits out of the sale of stock, the issuance of which was not warranted by the valuation of the physical property of the road or its earning capacity.

The men who sold the stock and made millions for themselves, who operated railroads, simply as an aid to their stock-jobbing schemes, while the men in control of the Pennsylvania operated a railroad on a business basis for railroad purposes, are now either frantically asking an increase in the minimum rate limit or have left the stockholders, to whom they sold, to work out the solution of the problem.

It's the old, old story—the men who stayed out of the stock jobbing game have their business well in hand and the ones who played the market prospered for a while, but are now called on to settle the bill.

Keeping Cool in Hot Weather

One of the most comforting things to possess during the heated terms such as we are now enduring, is a sweet temper.

To keep cool mentally and temperamentally these sweltering days and nights is considered almost as difficult as it is to keep cool physically.

It is the easiest thing in the world for a man to start a row with his wife or for a wife to start a row with her husband, for business and social associates and friends to disagree seriously over trivial matters, this kind of weather.

It is difficult to keep one's temper cool, when the thermometer is on a balloon trip up near the one hundred degree mark. It is more difficult because so many other people either do not try or, trying, fail to contril their tempers and take a fiendish delight in hurling all of their pent up bad humor directly at the ones who are holding themselves and their tempers under control.

The man who can go through the day's grind of business and come home in the evening in a really good humor in weather like this is the possessor of a stock of self-control that will make him famous.

The good house wife who can and does have all the "kid-dies" dressed up in cool summer garments and has attired herself in some fluffy, lace trimmed, cool looking summer dress, has everything in ship-shape after spending the hot hours of the day stemming, seeding and canning cherries or some other equally delightful pastime, and is cheerful, smiling and in a good humor—well—she is the kind of a wife to have.

Keeping cool mentally will aid one materially to keep cool physically and it is easy to do, too.

Many people make a serious mistake when they sit around and complain about the weather and permit themselves to fret over every little thing that goes wrong.

If folks would only convince themselves that things could be much worse and that they are pretty lucky after all—concentrate their thoughts on agreeable subjects and magnify the pleasant phases of life, rather than the unpleasant, their would be more comfort and less complaint, and fewer rows, while the hot weather holds this section in its grasp.

Try to hold your temper even if it is "hot" and see how much it helps you and how much it helps others too.

Poetry For Today

CARE AND WORRY.

You have heard of Care and Worry—dark visitors they say, Who stalk about familiar as Ham-let's ghost at play. They come and tarry with you, un-bidden and unmasked, And flaunt their gaunt arms o'er you—add weight to every task. They watch the rays of sunshine, and guard your open door, Lest Light and Hope may enter and sing the songs of yore. Close friends are Care and Worry, they laugh and dance with glee, And pile the faggots higher at each white lock they see. They glory in the shadows their black robes fling about, And while the cloud is o'er you they laugh and dance and shout. They ever walk before you, for should they fall behind, Their forms would vanish from you like mist before the wind. But over on the other side wait Love and Hope and Joy, Mother and wife and sister, and little Bob, your boy. The robin sings in the willow and the skylark chants his lay, And flowers blossom about you from the morn till close of day. Fling back at Care and Worry their black robes of despair, And know as the years pass swiftly God's hand hath rested there. Smooth out the great deep furrows cut wide on brow and cheek, For trouble lies in the valley—you are nearing the mountain peak. —Tit-Bits.

WIT AND NEAR-WIT

A Difficult Job.

The Pastor's Wife—What peculiar eyes young Ashley has. They always seem half-closed.

The Pastor—Yes, he has me guessing. I'm inclined to think he sleeps all through my sermon—but I can't catch him at it.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Foiled.

"I'll never speak to you again as long as I live!" exclaimed the temperamental girl.

"Haw! Haw!" rejoiced the practical youth. "You can't help yourself. I've got some of your songs and recitations on my phonograph."—Washington Star.

Wrong Again.

"Do you know, my dear," asked the young husband, "there's something wrong with the cake. It doesn't taste right."

"That is all your imagination," answered the bride, triumphantly, "for it says in the cook book that it is delicious."—Illustrirte Zeitung.

A Natural Fear.

"I hate to leave the old place," remarked Adam as he turned from the Garden of Eden.

"Leaving isn't the worst of it," replied Eve. "Think of the trouble you're going to have when you get to telling of the animals and rivers in this place to the explorers and geographical experts over yonder."—Washington Star.

SITUATION UP IN AIR

Columbus, June 25.—All hopes for a complete settlement of the wage difficulties of Ohio coal operators and miners were shattered suddenly when eastern Ohio operators and those of the Cambridge district withdrew from the joint wage conference.

The long expected break between the operators has left the coal mining situation in an uncertain stage. Those withdrawing from the conference announced they have finished negotiations with representatives of the miners' union. They represent an annual output of about 20,000,000 tons.

Operators in the Hocking, Pomeroy, Jackson, Crooksville and a part of the Bergholz districts remained in the conference and will attempt to make a scale for these districts. Little hope, however, was expressed that an agreement can be reached for these districts. Several operators expressed the belief that a mistake had been made by the eastern and Cambridge operators in withdrawing. They insisted that all should have stood together.

After the eastern Ohio and Cambridge operators had withdrawn, those remaining asked the miners' representatives to name their terms. They still insisted on the original proposal of 49.64 cents for mine run machine mined coal. Operators declared they could not possibly meet these figures, and suggested 43 cents a ton. This is an increase of 1.88 cents per ton over what previously had been offered, which was 41.12 cents. This proposal was declined by the miners, who insisted they are under instructions not to accept other than 49.64 cents.

It is reported that the miners may suggest that the mine run rate be ascertained by taking an average of screenings of the entire state. This method would produce a rate of about 45 cents, it was said. Operators of the four districts insist that, if a scale finally is agreed on, it shall be for the entire state and that no other district shall have a lower rate. National Secretary-Treasurer William Green has agreed to this proposal, but others of the miners' representatives have made no promises.

OATS CROP BURNED UP

Newark, O., June 25.—Licking county farmers report the oats crop destroyed by prolonged drought and extreme high temperature. An immense supply of blackberries and other small fruit was barely saved by recent rains.

COULDN'T PAY, KILLS HIMSELF

Cleveland, O., June 25.—A body, later identified as that of Paul Marasta, was found by girls in Brookside park. According to a note left by the man, he shot himself because he was unable to pay but $8 on a bill for $65 he owed.

HARD NUT TO CRACK

Members Find Little Common Ground For Getting Together.

Washington, June 25.—After ten days' consideration of the Clayton anti-trust bill passed by the house, the senate judiciary committee is apparently no nearer a conclusion as to what it shall report to the senate than it was the day it took its first look at the measure.

The committee is badly divided on many of the subjects in the bill. The members have found little common ground for prohibition of interlocking directorates and holding companies and they have not finally agreed on how to prevent price fixing. The so called labor sections, designed to relieve labor from the Sherman law and to govern the issuance of injunctions in labor disputes, have led to endless argument. The prospect for an early agreement, some members of the committee say, is not rosy, and the sentiment against reporting any such measure at this time is growing.

There was talk again about an effort to have the president agree to limit the amount of anti-trust legislation at this session, but no concerted action has been taken by Democrats on the committee to this end.

$1,000,000 FOR NEW FURNACES

Youngstown, O., June 25.—The contract for the building of the new open hearth steel furnaces of the Youngstown Iron and Steel company was let to Julian Kennedy, steel engineer of Pittsburgh. The contract price was $1,000,000.

LIONS ROAR AND ZEBRAS STAMPEDE

Cincinnati, June 25.—A message was received by Superintendent Stephan of the zoo from Carl Hagenbach in Germany, in which he states that thirty-six zebras being transported from South Africa were killed in a panic caused by lions.

MANSFIELD GETS 1915 ENCAMPMENT

East Liverpool, O., June 25.—Mansfield was selected as the place for holding the 1915 Ohio G. A. R. encampment. Rev. C. W. Blodgett, Cincinnati, was indorsed for national commander in chief, to be elected in Detroit.

If our past actions reproach us they cannot be atoned for by our own severe reflections so effectually as by a contrary behavior.—Steele.

CYCLONE MISSES CITY BY HAIRBREADTH TODAY

Shorter Drops Down on Lewis Pike Just Outside the City and Creates Havoc—Dairy Barn Torn From Foundation—Tornado Accompanied by Heavy Hail Storm Which Ruins Crops—Man Picked Up by Wind and Hurlled Over Fence.

Washington nearly experienced another cyclone at the noon hour Thursday, when a tornado swept over a strip of territory just outside of the city on the Lewis Pike, tearing great trees up by the roots, snapping others off, damaging buildings, fences and causing great alarm among the citizens of the neighborhood.

The tornado was accompanied by a terrific hail storm, which beat the crops into the earth and virtually ruined them. The storm zone covered a small strip of territory from east to west.

The tornado came in the nature of a funnel shaped cloud, which dropped down near the point where the B. & O. crosses the Lewis pike.

On the Davies farm, William Hayford, employed by Isaac Crispin, was in the field when the storm struck. He was lifted from his feet and carried some two rods, when he was hurled to the ground on the opposite side of the fence from where he was. He was stunned for a few moments, but not otherwise injured.

At the P. R. Armbrust dairy the large dairy barn was twisted off the foundation and nearly wrecked. Many large trees were torn down in the timber nearby. A large plate glass in Mr. Armbrust's residence was blown in.

On several of the adjoining farms the tornado swept fences away, tore up trees and played havoc generally. On the Armbrust, Campbell and Davies farms the crops were pounded to pieces by the deluge of small hail stones.

The trend of the twister was from east to west.

FARM HANDS GIVEN FINES

Good Hope, Greenfield and Bainbridge Men, Who Have Been in Habit of Creating Trouble on D. T. & I. Trains Between This City and Bainbridge, Arrested and Draw Stiff Fines.

George Watkins, Nip Yates and five of their boon companions faced Squire Kirsch Wednesday morning and paid varying sums for the privilege of seeing him. The gang has been terrorizing people on the D. T. & I. trains for some time, and, on Decoration Day, wound up with a free fight, between Bainbridge and Greenfield.

The men were arrested early Wednesday morning by Sheriff Stoker and D. T. & I. Detective J. F. Brown and brought to the county jail. The officers started Tuesday night but had an auto accident and caught the men in the harvest field in the morning.

The men have been guilty for some time of getting on the train at Greenfield, going to Bainbridge, loading up with liquor and terrorizing everyone on the trip back. It is thought that all were bootleggers.

The men, all intoxicated, started a fight Decoration Day. Oscar Tarlton, 43, white, of Good Hope, cut Ernest Scott, colored, 26, of Greenfield, across the face with a penknife. They got off at Greenfield, McCray, one of the party, being forced off at the point of the express messenger's revolver.

George Watkins, 51, colored, of Bainbridge, was fined $10 and costs, totaling $24.33. Nip Yates, 40, white, of Greenfield, was fined $25 and costs, a total of $33.88. The remainder were all given $15 and costs a total of $33.28. They are: Earl Jewell, 23, colored, of Greenfield; Oscar Tarlton, Charles McGray, 15, colored, of Greenfield, Ernest Scott and Roy Hudson.

Hudson and Yates have been trouble-makers for some time. All are farm hands.—Chillicothe News.

TEACHERS' EXAM. FOR SATURDAY

The next teachers' examination will be held at the High School building Saturday, and quite a number of applicants will try the test.

There will be no examination in July this year, and the next one after that of Saturday will be on August 28th.

Weather for Ohio—Partly cloudy tonight. Slightly cooler in north and central portions. Friday fair.

PASSING TRAIN FRIGHTENS TEAM

A team of horses hitched to the Plyley moving van became frightened at a passing train, while standing at the Pennsylvania depot early Wednesday evening, and ran away. Mr. Plyley was inside the depot at the time and emerged too late to stop his outfit which was going down South Main street at high speed. The animals were stopped just outside the corporation line. No damage resulted from the runaway.

FAMOUS CASE SETTLED IN THE SUPREME COURT

Case of Inez VanPelt et al. Against Mary H. Rogers et al. Decided in Favor of Defendants—150 Acres of Valuable Land Together With One of County's Best Known Residences, Involved in the Suit.

The case of Inez VanPelt, Ella E. Kiever, Humphrey Jones and Humphrey Jones, trustee as plaintiffs vs. Mary H. Rogers, Joseph D. Rogers, Lee H. Rogers, Alexander Rogers, John M. Rogers, Ina Goddard, John Hyde, James Draise, J. L. Hess and Ernest Hess as defendants which has been in the courts for the past five years was decided by the Supreme court this week, Tuesday.

This case has perhaps attracted more attention than any other civil case that has gone up from Fayette county for many years.

The heirs of Caroline Parrett, wife of Augustus Parrett and daughter of Peter Hess, and Humphrey Jones as trustee, attempted to recover 150 acres of land, on which is located the Joseph D. Rogers residence on the Danville pike, purchased and held by the parties above named, as defendants. The heirs of Caroline Parrett claimed that the land had come to them through a fee tail estate created by deed from their grandfather to their mother in 1847, and that an attempt on Caroline Parrett's part to reconvey the land to her father, Peter Hess was of no avail and that the title still remained in them. The suit was tried in the Court of Common Pleas of this county in 1909, and decision rendered by Judge Clarence Curtin in favor of the defendants. Plaintiffs then took the case to the Court of Appeals where it was tried before Judges Dustin, Ferneding and

MATINEE SEASON OPENED WEDNESDAY

With Light But Fast Bunch of Entries—Rextell Wins in A Trot, Georgia Fly in B Trot and Posey in C Pace.

A warm sun, a good track and a fast field of entries marked the opening of the matinee racing season in Washington C. H. Wednesday afternoon. Because of the fact that most of Fayette's horsemen are farmers and are now busy in the fields the attendance was light but a continuance of speedy performers such as Wednesday's should draw out the enthusiasts in force.

Rextell, formerly a favorite on the Springfield matinee track, won the A trot in three straight heats with Los Crone up, best time, 2:25. In the B trot, Georgia Fly, with Harry Taylor up, took the two heats straight, best time 2:30. Posey, with Peasley Stokesberry driving, won from Sunday Johnson, Tilden Richards up, in two straights in the C pace, in 1:10 and 1:14.

The results follow:

CLASS A TROT.
Rextell, by Axins (Crone) . . . 1 1 1
Hortense Bell, by Rhythmic Bell (Barr) . . . . . 3 2 2
Star Simmons (Allen) . . . . . 2 3 3
Time—2:28, 2:25, 2:25.

CLASS B TROT.

342 CANINES IN THE CITY

According to the assessors' returns there are 342 dogs in the city, virtually all of which are not valued by their owners—so the assessors were informed.

Some inquiry has been made at the District Assessor's office by parties who believed the number listed as being valuable, was the total number.

The returns by wards are: 1st ward 104; 2nd ward 90; 3rd ward 70; 4th ward 78. Of the total number 55 are females.

WINNING CLASS ROYALLY BANQUETED

Notable in its pleasure and significance of a memorable membership campaign, was the banquet of the First Baptist church Sunday school, given at the I. O. O. F. hall Wednesday night, terminating as it did a term of strenuous activity among the various classes.

The girls' class of Miss Mary DeWees distinguished itself by bringing in the largest number of new members and teacher and pupils were the honored guests of the entire school.

The tables, prettily decorated, were arranged in a circle with the honor table at which were seated Miss DeWees and her class, in the center.

The class color, pink, was effectively used in festoons and carnations on the table, and tiny baskets held pink confections.

The supper hour was made merry with many pretty compliments extended to the winning class. Miss DeWees responded appreciatively.

A hundred and fifty plates were served, a few of the church people joining with the Sunday school members.

The menu was delicious, meeting with the guests' unqualified approval. An entertaining program after the dinner included piano duets by Misses Dorothy Wyatt and Gertrude Miller, piano solos by Miss Mabel Briggs, vocal quartets by Messrs. Hicks, Burch, Davenport and Hicks, and a duet, which closed the program by Mrs. J. H. Hicks and Miss Briggs.

The general committee having the banquet in charge was made up of Mrs. Wesley DeWees, chairman; Messdames Hildebrand, Briggs, Davenport and Hicks.

FARMER FACES SERIOUS CHARGE

William Shockey, a well known farmer of Perry township, came into the city Thursday morning to face an ugly charge placed against him by Mrs. Mary Lyons, of near New Martinsburg.

The warrant was issued upon an affidavit filed by Mrs. Lyons Wednesday in which she charged that Shockey assaulted her with criminal intent, the alleged assault she claimed occurred on June 16th at her home.

The warrant was placed in the hands of Sheriff Nelson and when he arrived at Shockey's home Wednesday afternoon and found him busy in the wheat field, he allowed him to go upon promise that he appear here Thursday morning, which he did, retaining Gregg, Patton & Gregg.

When he appeared before Justice T. N. Craig he entered a plea of not guilty and was bound over to the Common Pleas court. Bond was furnished and he was released.

He denies the charge against him. Shockey is a married man with several children, and resides on the Marvin King farm. He is about 50 years of age.

It is claimed that Shockey and the father of Mrs. Lyons had some trouble a few years ago.

The affair has created somewhat of a sensation in the New Martinsburg neighborhood.

OUR NEW FIELD GUN. Its Split Trail Makes It a Wonderfully Efficient Weapon.

What is thought to be the biggest single improvement made in the artillery service in a decade is comprised in the new field gun recently adopted by the United States government. The carriage of this gun has a double or split trail, the word "trail" being used to designate the long beam or prop that supports the gun on the ground at the rear. The old style single trail prevented any great lowering of the gun breech and therefore limited the angle to which the muzzle could be elevated.

With the split trail the breech drops down between the halves, and any elevation of the muzzle that is necessary may be obtained. By means of a hand wheel the gun may be swung quickly and easily in a wide horizontal arc without shifting the trail, which is another great improvement over the old style carriage. The gunners are thoroughly shielded by steel plates only two-tenths of an inch in thickness, but of such strength and toughness that they cannot be penetrated by a steel jacketed, needle nosed bullet fired from a service rifle at a distance of 100 yards. Even the gunner who sights the piece is not exposed. By a system of mirrors and prisms the telescope sight zigzags upward and passes out through a port in the shield a foot or more above the gunner's head.

The projectile fired by this gun is three inches in diameter and about one foot long, but contains enough explosive and balls to wipe out a whole company.—Popular Mechanics.

Tale of a Tail of a Stuffed Horse.

The stuffed representation of Napoleon's famous charger, Vizer, having worn out its third tail since its master's death, has recently been supplied with a fourth flowing appendage for the benefit of visitors to Paris. Vizer, except for its tail, is the "authentic" war horse ridden by Napoleon. After the animal's death the skin was stuffed and placed among the Napoleonic collection in the Invalides museum, and it became one of the objects which attract most of the attention of visitors. Of the three tails that have already disappeared at the hands of sightseers, despite the vigilance of the guardians, it is believed that at least two are in America in small detachments.

Mrs. Uptump (to hostess)—That grizzly faced brute standing over there at the door had such poor taste as to refuse to get me a glass of water. Surely you didn't intend to invite such a man to your reception?

Mrs. Hostess—Don't fret, my dear, I didn't invite him. He is my husband.—Calumet.

Entitled to It.

The small boy was seeing, for the first time, a picture of Atlas supporting the earth. After looking at it for a minute he turned to his father and asked, "Why doesn't he take his base?" "What do you mean?" "Don't you know the rule, pop, when a man has been hit by a pitched ball?"—Puck.

In Social Circles

Miss Jeanette Weaver is entertaining the girls of the Sour Pickle club at a jolly house party at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Weaver.

The guests include Miss Charlotte Harper, of Lafontaine, Ind., Misses Jean Fitzgerald, Carrie Willis, Doris McFadden, Mary Alice Culhan, Bessie Casey, Lora Ellen Tharp.

Mrs. F. E. Haines delightfully entertained the little boys and girls of her primary class of Sugar Creek Sunday school.

Thirty children spent a merry afternoon on the large lawn of the home on the Creek road, playing games and indulging in a peanut hunt.

A refreshing luncheon was served and fruit punch all afternoon.

Assisting Mrs. Haines in entertaining the children were Misses Ivah and Juanita Haines, Ethel Moore and Mary Fisher.

Washington friends received cards Thursday morning announcing the marriage of Mr. Harold Bradfute, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bradfute, and Miss Elsie Jackson, of Columbus.

Rev. Thomas performed the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Bradfute will make their home in Columbus, where Mr. Bradfute is engaged in business.

Wednesday seemed to be a favorite day for Sunday school class parties.

The young girls of Mrs. Eva Penn's Sunday school class were indebted to their teacher for a most delightful afternoon on the cool, shady porch and beautiful lawn of her home.

Lemonade served all afternoon was most refreshing, and a dainty summer collation was also served.

Miss Elsie Craig took her class of young girls to Lost Bridge for a merry afternoon's picnic.

The girls thoroughly enjoyed the out-of-door gathering and Miss Craig served a tempting summer luncheon.

WILL DELIVER CLASS ADDRESS

Rev. W. B. Gage of the First Presbyterian church, will deliver the class address at the Boxwell commencement at Madison Mills Friday night.

FIRST TWO-ROW PLANTER INVENTED IN ROSS

The meeting of the Ross County Crop Improvement Association was one of the most interesting of any yet held. The principal talk was given by Major J. C. Foster, president of the organization on his own personal experience with the methods of farming as practiced years ago.

Cattle in the early days, as he remembered, were fattened on corn fodder mostly, and driven over the mountains to the market at Baltimore. The call of the drivers might be heard constantly everywhere almost, he said, about this time of the year as the herds were being driven on their way to market.

Corn, then, was cut by hand and, dropped, not carried and shocked, as the later method. Other men would follow the cutters, gather up the corn and shock it. Occasionally the corn would be husked on the stalk, but this practice was the exception.

In such cases, however, the stalks would be cut with hoes in the spring before tilling the land again. He described a striking contrast between the early farm machinery and that used at present. The first breaking plough used were of wooden points and mould boards.

Later comes the "ground hog" plough with the cast iron point and then the all iron ones. The sulky came into use in the early '60's, but was not a success at that time. After the ground was broken, it received very little preparation for planting. The corn was dropped by hand and covered either by hoes or in the larger fields by means of a jumper. This was a small plough like affair, which would be dropped in the ground between the hills, then jerked out and the dirt would fall on the corn.

The first two-row corn planter made in the United States, as he remembers, was made by a man named Moffet at Richmond Dale. It was somewhat crude, but apparently successful. Considerable litigation over the patent resulted with some man in the east.

The first clover grown in the Scioto Valley was by Thomas Foster, grandfather of Major Foster and the seed was given him by Mr. Van Meter, a grandfather of Judge Van Meter. Many interesting personal experiences of his early days were related by the speaker. The next meeting will be held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms at 2 o'clock, July 7. Abe Gehres will deliver a talk at that time.—Chillicothe News.

PERSONAL CHARACTERISTICS OF OHIO'S STRENUOUS GOVERNOR

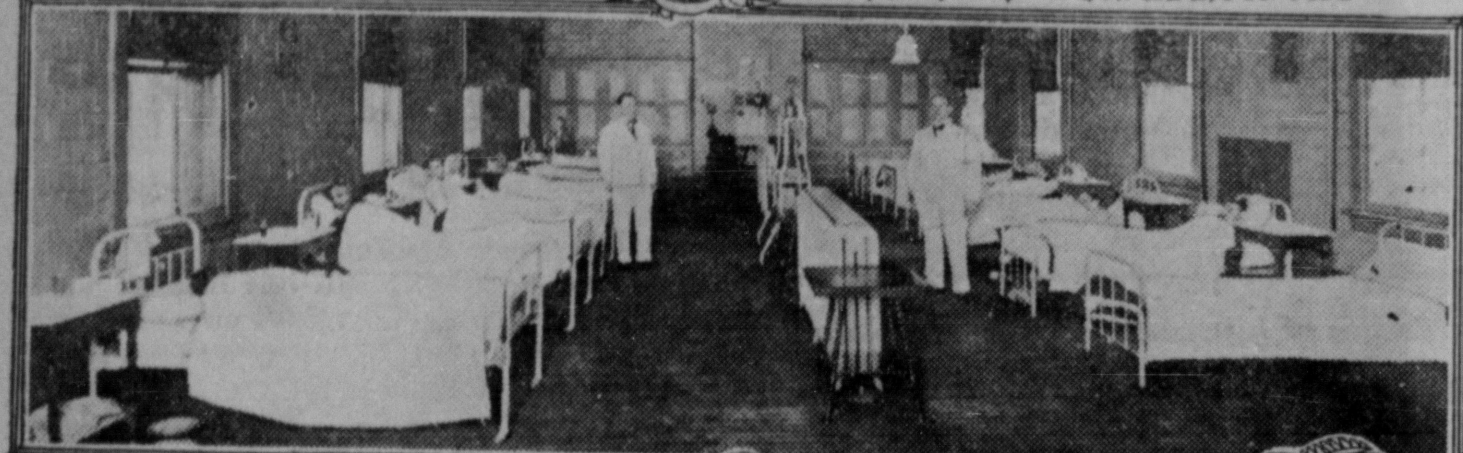

How Hon. James M. Cox Manages To Do More Work Than Any Other Man Who Has Been Governor—A Man of Unique Emotions and of Indomitable Courage—His Attitude Toward Convicts Typical of His Humane Ideas

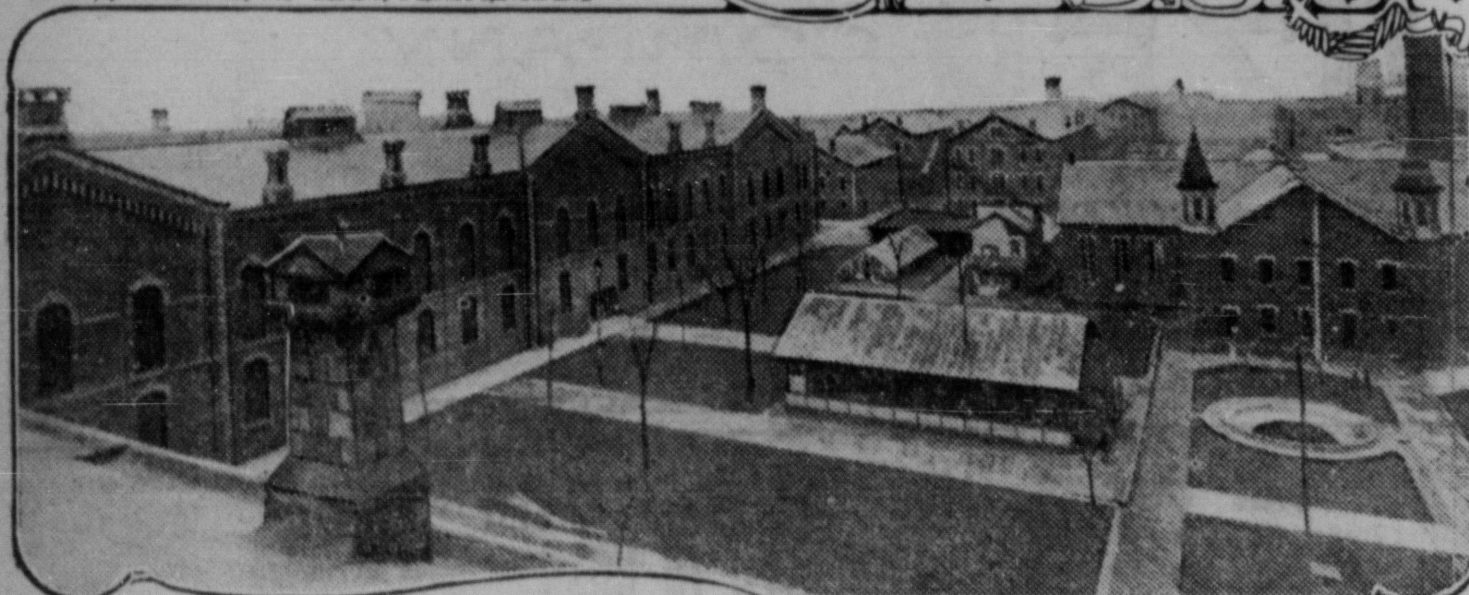

PRISONERS AT OHIO STATE PENITENTIARY SCHOOL

GOV. JAMES M. COX

MODEL HOSPITAL AT STATE PENITENTIARY

EXTERIOR VIEW OHIO STATE PENITENTIARY

Back in 1905, a few days after the opening of the congress at Washington, a brand new member from Ohio got up to make a speech. Deliberately he dared to defy the precedent which commanded new members to be seen and not heard. The galleries peered down curiously and the other new members trembled at the audacity of their colleague. Old timers frowned dubiously. But the new Ohio member went right on with his speech, commanded the close attention of the house and finally got a good "hand" for his effort. Speaking of the episode later Champ Clark declared that only once before within his remembrance had a similar thing been successfully done.

Four years later the same Ohio congressman was elected governor of this state. Sweeping through a whirlwind campaign, he had defied precedent again. He had set aside the old rule which enjoined candidates for governor to hark back to the glorious achievements of his party's past. Instead he had championed a new state constitution, had espoused the direct nomination by the voters of all elected officials, advocated the initiative and referendum, home rule for cities, jury reform, the regulation of saloons by license, the abolition of prison contract labor and many other so-called reforms. He had tied his fortunes to the change in the basic law of the state. And so doing, he had burned his bridges behind him.

Poise, aggressiveness, the courage to do and dare—these things Gov. Cox possesses in a superlative degree. They may have made for him bitter enemies as they made for Theodore Roosevelt. But whatever they have brought about, whether personal good or ill, whether a disproportionate number of enemies or a super number of friends, they are his attributes, just as much a part of him as his human nature, and they'll always, of course, remain with him.

As a character study, the governor of Ohio is strikingly unique. His pictures show only a part of him. Some of them flatter him a bit for he isn't quite so handsome as a few of them make him out. All of them indicate intense earnestness, but only a few of them succeed in bringing out the almost reckless pertinacity that has characterized Cox as a public official. Neither do the photographs show the Rooseveltian energy that has been one of the biggest assets in the carrying out of the so-called Cox program of legislative enactment. Only face to face does the observer catch the impression of reserve physical strength and mental buoyancy indicated in the flush of face, the alertness of carriage, the facility of movement.

Tremendous physical energy permits Gov. Cox to stand up under stupendous strains. It is extremely doubtful if any of his predecessors during the last twenty years would have been able physically to sustain the pace which the present governor has set. For no matter how harshly his specific accomplishments may be attacked, the effort back of the accomplishments stands out. Witness the strenuous campaign for election in 1912, the regular session of the general assembly right afterward, the great flood before the session was over, then the vast preparation for the special session with its arduous labors. During the regular session of the 80th general assembly fifty-six major measures advocated by the governor were passed. The special session passed a score more of almost equal importance.

Whence comes the superlative energy that even the enemies of Cox are compelled to envy? Partly, no doubt, through inheritance. The governor's physique is robust, though not bulky. But much of the reserve strength comes from personal habits. At 7 in the morning comes a bath. The breakfast that follows is light. Then comes a brisk walk from home to office, something more than a mile. Particularly arduous official work is invariably followed when possible by a tramp through the fields or woods. Occasionally horseback riding offers relief to the long confinement of office. A hunting and fishing trip probably once a year affords relaxation for tugging mind and body.

But after all it is the daily routine of exercise that permits the governor to do such a great amount of conflicting work without visible impairment. Mere weather never interferes with his outdoor recreation. He will face a blinding blizzard or a drenching rain storm just as readily as he will greet the sunshine of a spring morning. He has been known many times to send his office corps home in an auto and himself to plunge afout into the teeth of a storm after a day of heavy grind. This is the sort of life that permits him to be a fiend for work, to begin his duties every morning before nine, to labor on many times through the noon hour with only a hasty lunch brought in to his office, and to remain at his desk at night when the light in his office window shines out against the darkness of the rest of the capitol.

Many men are daring, aggressive and cold-blooded. A few are daring, aggressive and very human. Gov. Cox is among the few. His human side in many ways seems a paradox against his physical and what many people call his political audacity. Some people believe that his humanitarian side is too pronounced. There are some for example who argued that the governor transgressed on his official duties in his eagerness to relieve suffering during the Ohio floods. Not a few critical observers held that he erred when he asked the general assembly to permit money to be raised for flood relief and rehabilitation in excess of the one per cent law. But the New York papers and observers in many other parts of the country applauded the humanity of the Buckeye executive and the marvelous rapidity with which he brought order out of chaos. Listen, for instance, to a paragraph from a long eulogistic editorial that appeared in the New York World:

"The man who has dominated the situation in Ohio is Gov. Cox. He has been not only chief magistrate and commander in chief, but head of the life-saving service, the greatest provider of food and clothing that the state has ever known, the principal health officer, the sanest councillor, the severest disciplinarian, the hardest worker, the most hopeful prophet, the kindest philanthropist and the best reporter. He has performed almost incredible labors in all these fields and his illuminating dispatches to the world at the close of several heart-breaking days have given a clearer vision of conditions than could be had from any other source. A true Democrat, a great governor and a reporter who gets his story into the first edition, James M. Cox excites and is here-with offered assurance of the world's most distinguished consideration."

Naturally conservative, the New York World never paid a higher tribute to any public official than this. But note the underlying fact that it was the humanitarian spirit of a governor that excites the editorial admiration as well as his executive ability.

The governor's sympathetic nature is displayed as graphically in his attitude toward the Ohio penitentiary and other state institutions as in his work during the floods. When the Cox administration began the penitentiary in particular was forbidding. Many of the inmates were in continued idleness and their faces depicted blank despair. Two of Cox's immediate predecessors had vetoed appropriations for a farm prison in the interests of economy. Gov. Cox talked in the prison chapel one Sunday almost immediately after his inauguration. He was deeply impressed by the hopelessness of the inmates. His talk to the prisoners indicated the depth of his feeling for them:

"We do not want any longer to coin dollars out of your tears or out of the anguish of the families you left when you were sent here," he said. "The state does not care to profit by the suffering you and your people have undergone. We want you to hear the morning chorus of the birds, to hark back to the crooning lullabies of your mothers. These things will do you more good than all of the stinging rebukes with which you were sent here."

The governor's speech has been taken up by prison reform societies all over the country. Other governors have quoted him word for word in pleading for better prison conditions. In fact it is declared that in some states of the enlightened Union at the present time penal conditions aren't much better than they were in the old Mexican prison which United States soldiers recently took over at Vera Cruz.

But, nevertheless, there were those who jeered at what they called sentimentality. They argued that prisons are prisons and that criminals fail to appreciate the finer sentiments. Gov. Cox is sensitive to criticisms but he doesn't let them interfere with that he has in mind. In the penitentiary problem, his master skill in execution came into play as it had in the floods. To-day there is no corporal punishment in state institutions. Prisoners in the penitentiary not only are not idle, but part of the profits of their work is actually sent home to their families. This is what the governor meant when he said that the state didn't want to coin dollars out of suffering and tears. Moreover there is now a penitentiary school where gray-haired men learn their A B C's. And a farm prison soon is to be erected to replace completely the grimy stone walls of the present institution at Columbus.

One other illustration to show the peculiar contrast between the governor's sympathetic nature and his hard fighting abilities when aroused, an illustration which involves the biggest single battle in which the governor has been engaged, namely, his fight with the liability insurance companies.

Liability insurance companies insure employers against loss through suits for damages instituted by injured employees or the dependents of killed employees. The employer pays insurance premiums. The liability company's business is to fight any or all damage claims against him. Naturally, since liability insurance is a private business, the fighting of damage claims is based on business instead of sentiment. The insurance company attorneys and agents and investigators become callous. The better bargains they drive for their company the greater ultimately will be their reward. So when a workman is killed in his factory, it is the business of the liability company to "settle" with the family for the lowest amount possible. The company will usually offer a small sum to avoid a suit for damages. The family must accept or sue. A suit means usually two or three years of delay in the courts. Suits have been known to drag for 20 years. And the family's attorney ultimately will receive from one-third to one-half of the final reward. So the family usually settles for what the insurance company is willing to pay.

This was the situation which Gov. Cox faced when he began his duties. There was a workmen's compensation law on the statutes which provided that the state might act as a compensator for those injured or killed in industrial accidents. Under this system employers who wanted to could pay their premiums to the state instead of to the private liability companies and the state would then settle with the victims. Gov. Cox found that this system alleviated conditions only in a slight degree. He studied the situation carefully and decided that the only remedy was virtually to eliminate private business when it came to settling for human injuries and death, and to have the state step in as general mediator.

His decision meant practically the elimination of the private liability companies and—war. This war began early in the Cox administration. It is still on. The governor has won but he hasn't been able to stop the fighting. The liability companies dislodged from one stronghold, keep retreating to another. Their first big maneuver was to attempt to use the initiative and referendum to defeat the compulsory workmen's compensation act, the act which played havoc with their profits. The governor began a campaign to show that the initiative and referendum petitions, circulated by the liability companies to defeat the compensation act, were fraudulent. Ultimately the petitions were held fraudulent and rejected by the secretary of state, who was sustained by the Supreme Court. The contests over the validity of the petitions, however, was intensely bitter. In it the liability companies fought behind a central organization, known as The Ohio Equity League. Now even though the new compensation law has been in operation for several months, the war is not over. The liability people regard the governor as their enemy. They will conquer him ultimately if they can.

Such is the striking contrast of characteristics displayed by the governor of Ohio. He is gentle in his sympathy with victims of illness or trouble or disaster, but a grim, uncompromising fighter whenever he believes that selfish interest is his adversary. Probably a fighter who felt less deeply might be a less relentless foe. Anyway, the Cox career will be one interesting to observe, because of this strange mixture of gentleness and strength, of kindness and daring, of intense sympathy and pugnacious, fighting ability.

message was dated at Torreon. No details of the battle were given in the message other than that many prisoners were captured by General Villa's troops. The Constitutionalist forces also captured arms and ammunition in plentiful supplies, according to the message.

General Villa himself arrived at Plimienta, a station nine miles north of Zacatecas, following the reported taking of the city by his troops.

No information regarding the federal defenders of the city under General Barron was conveyed in the message from General Pezreya. It is not known whether the federals evacuated the city or surrendered themselves to the Constitutionalist forces.

The loss to Villa's troops was reported at Juarez as having been 2,200 in killed and wounded. The federal loss was not given. Two of Villa's generals, Trinidad Rodriguez and Man-clovio Herrera, were reported wounded, while General Toribio, according to an unconfirmed report, was killed.

ALL READY FOR THE FINAL TEST

By Associated Press.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 25.—With months of hard training at their back, 120 oarsmen are today idling or paddling away the hours which intervene before the call to the starting line for the Intercollegiate Regatta to be held on the Hudson river course tomorrow afternoon. Nothing remains but the final instructions from the coaches just before the fifteen crews step into their shells for the slow pull up stream to the start twenty-four hours hence.

Since early last autumn the crew candidates have been working in-doors and out as weather permitted and from the original squads averaging close to 150 about thirty oarsmen have survived the gruelling months of training and today have won seats in either the varsity, junior or freshmen eight oared shells. Tomorrow will come the supreme test with the national university rowing championship at stake in the three races that form the program of the Twentieth Annual Regatta of the Intercollegiate Rowing Association.

Coaches and crews alike, while confident, predict a close contest in each event and if the weather and water conditions are favorable new records for the course are not unlikely.

RUINS OF THE PLACE OF DEATH

The ruins of ancient cities, remnants of dead civilizations, have a fascination for most people. Be they scientists of great renown or mere mortals of more common clay, somehow something stirs within them at the touch of antique things. The average tourist seeking surcease from the daily grind, whether of the college lecture room or of the constant chase of the elusive dollar in trade and traffic, who finds himself in some strange city and learns that not far off are the weather-beaten walls of an ancient temple, shrine, or place whose history is a mystery and whose builders are unknown, hies himself at once to that place. He touches the crumbling stones, traces the grotesque figures and queer designs, and marvels that such things could have been so many years before he came on earth, perhaps even before the very civilization of which he is a boastful part came into existence.

Mexico is full of such ruins as these; in Yucatan alone there are some 70 or more. Approach to some of these is too arduous to most tourists, but on the southernmost shore of the republic lies the state of Oaxaca, whose capital is easily accessible. Oaxaca City is reached from Puebla by the Mexican Southern, according to a statement in the latest pamphlet on Mexico, issued by the Pan American Union of Washington, D. C.

The distance is 228 miles and the trip takes 12 hours. It is 288 miles from Mexico City and the same distance from Vera Cruz. Its population is 40,000. It was the early home of both Porfirio Diaz, former president, and Benito Juarez, the patriot and national hero. Its age makes it very attractive, but it is quite modern in many ways, possessing tram-cars, electric lights, telephones, and other factors of comfort. Another feature connected with Oaxaca is the fact that from the city the excursion is made, about 25 miles to the south-east, to the ruins of Mitla, some of the best preserved prehistoric remains of all Mexico.

Mitla is a contraction or corruption of the word Mictlan, meaning "the place of Death." The modern village and the ancient ruins occupy the center of an arid plain or valley, surrounded on all sides by equally arid hills, on the highest summit of which are the well-preserved remains of a great fortress whose walls are of a rough construction and without ornament of any kind. Nearly in the center of the plain five great groups of buildings stand out completely exposed. Many of them are now nearly shapeless mounds and masses of ruins. Two great groups, however, are in comparatively perfect preservation, a third is incorporated with an old church, and a fourth, the great sacrificial mound, is surrounded by the ruins of a very ancient church.

Things I Wish I Had Known Before I Was Twenty-One

Recently three leading men spoke at the men's meeting in Cleveland on the subject: "Things I Wish I Had Known Before I Was Twenty-one." G. Leonard Fels, the first speaker, gave answers sent in by twenty-two men. Every word is worth reading.

1. What I was going to do for a living—what my life work would be.
2. That my health after thirty depended in a large degree, on what I put into my stomach before I was twenty-one.
3. How to take care of money.

4. The commercial asset of being neatly and sensibly dressed.
5. That a man's habits are mighty hard to change after he is 21.
6. That a harvest depends on the seed sown—wheat produces wheat, thistles bring forth thistles, rag-weed will spoil a good pasture, and wild oats seed sown will produce all kinds of misery and unhappiness.
7. That things worth while require patience and money.
8. That you can't get something for nothing.
9. That the world would give me just about what I deserved.
10. That by the sweat of my brow would I earn my bread.
11. That a thorough education not only pays better wages than hard labor, but it brings the best of everything else namely: more enjoyable work, better food, more of the whole-some luxuries and pleasures of life, better folks to live and deal with and best of all, the genuine satisfaction that you are somebody worthy of respect, confidence and the priceless gift of friendship.
12. That honesty was the best policy not only in dealing with my neighbors, but also in dealing with myself and God.
13. The value of absolute truthfulness in everything.
14. The folly of not taking older people's advice.
15. That everything that my mother wanted me to do was right.
16. That "dad" wasn't an old fogey after all. If I had done as he wished me to do, I would be very much better off physically, mentally and morally.
17. What is really meant to father and mother to rear their son.
18. What hardships and disappointment would be entailed by my leaving home against my parents' consent.
19. More of the hopeful and inspiring parts of the Bible, particularly the four books dealing with the life of Christ.

20. The greatness of opportunity and joy of serving a fellow man.

21. That Jesus Christ was with me as an elder brother and friend in every activity and relationship of life.

22. That God's relationship to me is just as helpful and delightful as that of a good shepherd toward his herd, or of a father toward his son.

Milk in Greece.
The principal sources of milk supply in Greece are sheep and goats. It is reported that the sheep on the island of Scopello drop two and often four lambs. The milk yield often reaches two to five pints per day, especially the first three months after lambing. There are about 3,000,000 goats in Greece. The indigenous mountain breed gives but little milk, while Maltese goats give from three to five pints per day.

SMALL INCREASE IN UTILITIES CONCERNS

Washington Water Company Valuation Remains Unchanged—Cleveland and Buffalo Transit Company Nearly Trebled—Other Increases.

Columbus, Ohio, June 25.—Only a slight increase was made in aggregate taxable valuations of water-works, artificial gas, pipe line and union depot companies in Ohio over their valuation of 1913, according to the report of the state tax commission made public today.

Aggregate valuations of water transportation companies were more than doubled solely because of increases of two companies. The Cleveland and Buffalo Transit Company are valued at $956,920 this year, and only $321,660 last year. The Pennsylvania-Ontario Transportation Company was valued this year at $181,240 and last year at only $85,820.

Following are a few of the valuations:

Chillicothe Gas, Light and Water Company—1914, $185,000; 1913, $185,000.

Hamilton Utilities Co.—1914, $369,560; 1913, $276,760.

Massillon Water Supply Co.—1914, $300,000; 1913, $300,000.

Washington Water Co.—1914, $100,000; 1913, $100,000.

Mahoning Valley Water Co.—1914, $675,850; 1913, $675,850.

Youngstown Heating Co.—1914, $69,900; 1913, $68,400.

Following are the aggregate valuations of different classes of utilities as announced today:

Artificial gas companies—1914, $1,203,350; 1913, $1,174,200.

Water works companies—1914, $4,353,180; 1913, $4,283,120.

Pipe line companies—1914, $36,738,510; 1913, $36,607,930.

Water transportation companies—1914, $1,352,860; 1913, $630,280.

Union depot companies—1914, $2,275,540; 1913, $3,209,850.

SIMILAR INITIALS CAUSE CONFUSION

Development in the Harlor case at Columbus, mention of the action of the board of education being carried in The Herald yesterday, disclosed that the instructor affected is not J. A. Harlor but J. D. Harlor.

Mr. J. D. Harlor is a brother of the J. A. Harlor, formerly of this city, and has been connected with East High as the head of the mathematical department for about fifteen years and principal for several years.

As a man Mr. Harlor stands high in Columbus and is an elder in a leading Presbyterian church, and the question of his reinstatement seems to be an educational one, arousing considerable pro and con feeling.

WHO OWNS THIS DESERTED YALE?

A one cylinder Yale motorcycle, which it is believed had been stolen was abandoned in the front yard of Mr. C. A. Sauer, corner East Temple street and Delaware street, sometime between ten o'clock last night and four o'clock this morning.

The motorcycle was evidently abandoned because the supply of gasoline was exhausted. The license tag had been removed from the machine. Mr. Sauer is holding the machine for identification.

WATER SPOUTS THREATEN SAFETY

Mrs. W. B. Gage writes from the summer home of her brother, Mr. Allen Pearson, at Lake Okoboji, Ia., of the era of terrific storms in that locality.

Two water spouts have threatened inundation, the water coming up to the floor of their cottage, although the cottage is raised on piers. Their dock, raised a number of feet above the lake, is the only one not under water.

OFFICERS REPORT GROUND UNFAVORABLE

Word has been received from Col. B. L. Barger that Capt. Monypeny and Lieut. Lawlor have reported unfavorable on the proposed route of march for the 4th regiment, which was to march from this city to Chillicothe for camp in August.

A meeting of the field staff and regimental officers has been called for Sunday, when a solution to the problem is to be worked out.

EXPERIENCE MEETING

The ladies of the Guild of the Presbyterian church held their dollar experience meeting at the time of the fortnightly Kensington at the home of Mrs. J. H. Williams.

Over fifty dollars was turned into the treasury, the ladies giving interesting accounts of the way in which their dollars had been earned.

Assisting Mrs. Williams as the afternoon's hostesses were Mesdames Fitzgerald, Probasco, Hall, Sprenger, Jess Persinger, Misses Bell Crooks and Fannie Persinger.

A summer refectory was served during the pleasurable social afternoon.

Worse Than Retribution.
"Pa, is retribution the worst thing a man can have?"

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Bright's Disease.
Bright's disease is a silent, hardworking enemy, and the victim himself may not know that he has it until it has gone so far that he is incurable. It is easily detected by a test of the urine, and if it is caught in its beginning its destructive force can be held to a minimum throughout the natural life of the victim. When urinalysis shows an excess of uric acid and albumen the presence of Bright's disease is determined, but both the albumen and the uric acid may be decreased by the adoption of an intelligent diet, the selection and consumption of those foods that yield the least of these two elements. Such foods are grains, fresh and dried fruits and fresh vegetables. Meats should be let alone, because they favor the increase of uric acid, and there are some vegetables, like asparagus and mushrooms, that contain more uric acid than meat.

WILL TELL OF FROZEN NORTH

Dr. Lincoln Wirt to Appear at Local Chautauqua.

HAS HAD SPECTACULAR CAREER

Is World Traveler and Has Experienced Adventures in All Climates. Lecture Here Will Be Dramatic Recital of His Life Under the Aurora Borealis—Story is Replete With Accounts of Hairbreadth Escapes and Geographic Information.

One of the most interesting men on the Lyceum and Chautauqua platforms of the present day is Dr. Lincoln Wirt, the explorer, lecturer and author, into whose life has been crammed more of nerve-tingling adventure than most men ever dream of. A world traveler, he has roughed it with Eskimos of the frozen north and lolled at ease at the court of King Chulalongkorn of Siam, his lectures on "The Conquest of the Arctic" and "Under the Southern Cross" being extraordinary recitals of personal service in out-of-the-way parts of the world.

In 1897 Mr. Wirt was sent to Alaska as superintendent of Congressional church work. Here he established churches at Nome, Valdez and Douglas, as well as hospitals and libraries in other places. While thus engaged he was appointed territorial superintendent of education by the United States government, founding the public schools which are today farthest north.

His lecture founded on his experiences in the Arctic constitutes one of the most fascinating contributions to the literature of the platform. His interpretations of Eskimo life, and the story of his dogs, is absolutely unique. Soul-stirring is his recital of his flight during the long night of an Arctic winter in quest of relief for his sick, ice-imprisoned companions; the almost human intelligence of his Eskimo dogs; the Igloo village never before visited by the white men; the strange customs, fetich dances and heathenish orgies of the Eskimo; the treachery of false guides; the awful silence and loneliness; the auroral splendors; his study of Arctic bird and animal life; the escape from wolves; the attack of a whale while at sea in an open kayak, and countless other things which go to make up one of the most extraordinary lectures extant.

Unlike many men who have passed through unusual experiences, but are unable to make them real to their listeners, Dr. Wirt is an exceptional lecturer, having a marked facility of expression and a dramatic instinct which enables him to impart a thrill of romance to his story of hardship and endeavor. Not only are his lectures great entertainments, but they are worth while contributions to the understanding of present-day problems in Alaska and appreciation of its great possibilities.

Educators the country over have given the most enthusiastic commendation to the work of Dr. Wirt upon the lecture platform, and it is a matter of congratulation that our people are to have an opportunity of hearing him here during the coming Chautauqua, when his lecture on "The Conquest of the Arctic" will be given. Alaska and her resources loom large in the public prints of today as interesting topics of current news, and Dr. Wirt's coming will be hailed as an unusual opportunity of learning at first hand much of interest concerning our northern possessions from the man best qualified of all our platform speakers to impart that information.

JUNE SHOWERS AND WATERMELONS

Cooling showers and the appearance on the market of watermelons, Thursday, acted as a balm to the heat soaked and summer sick natives, who through this encouraging influence have, for the most part, taken a new lease on life and are ready to concede that it isn't such a tough proposition after all.

Pretty and inviting is the spectacle of huge pyramids of gorgeously green watermelons banked high in front of the grocery stores and the fact that they are imported from Georgia is taken only as an indication that the home grown crop will be ready in about four weeks. The watermelons were received through the Dahl-Millikan company and are of good size, excellent grade and full maturity. They are selling at 25c, 30c and 35c. Canteloupes this season are of the best grade that has been on the market in years and stocks are being depleted by eager purchasers.

Each Sunday, until October, the D. T. & I. will run low priced excursions to either Jackson or Springfield.

It is expected that the popular priced excursions will be largely patronized. Only steam trains will be used for the excursions.

The first excursion is to Springfield, July 5, and the next is to Jackson, July 12.

PROGRAM OPENS EARLY

All persons who expect to take part in the athletic events, and who desire to see same, must be on the grounds by 9:15 on the morning of July 4th.

The program will probably be opened with a 50-yard dash, open to any one in the county. Physical Director McClung is preparing new attractions for the athletic program.

PEACE HINGES ON MEXICAN CHOICE

By Associated Press.

Niagara Falls, June 25.—Peace between the United States and Mexico rests today on a single condition, the establishment of a new provisional government along the lines which will justify work in according it recognition.

Mexican factions have given guaranty that they will extend every effort to earn this reward. Upon the representatives of the two warring factions, the Constitutionalists and the Huerta government, devolves the task now of selecting a provisional president and his cabinet to serve in the interim while the country is being pacified and made ready for a general presidential election.

the jurisdiction of the Western Federation of Miners, that certain men connected with the insurgents of the old union would again resort to armed resistance.

CARRANZA'S EAR WILL BE ON GROUND

Washington, June 25.—Carranza's plan to proceed at once from Saltillo to the American border at Nuevo-Laredo, is with the chief purpose of being in direct telegraphic communication with his agents in the United States when they begin negotiations with the Huerta delegates.

The agents of the Constitutionalists here today expressed the opinion that the conference probably would begin Monday or early next week, at the latest. Where it would be held was not determined. Buffalo was suggested, but it was pointed out that the Huerta delegates might object to negotiations, even informally, on American soil. Niagara-on-the-Lake also has been suggested.

Butte, Mont., June 25.—The announcement in Helena last night of Charles H. ## ZACATECAS STREWN WITH MEXICAN DEAD

By Associated Press.

Zacatecas, Mexico, June 25.—delayed in transmission over military wires.—The fiercest fighting on both sides, and an unusually high loss of life to both Federals and Constitutionalists, ended last night in the capture of Zacatecas by General Villa's forces. It required four days to take the Federal stronghold of central Mexico.

The Federals, under General Medina Barron, defended their position stubbornly but they finally were overcome by the forces of Villa and General Natera.

The Constitutional soldiers scaled hill after hill and mountain after mountain killing and wounding thousands of Federals and themselves suffering heavy losses.

So far it has been impossible to obtain any accurate estimate of the losses on both sides. The heaps of dead on the mountain sides and in the city bore testimony of the ferocity of the fighting.

General Villa was in the van of the attacking party. Five members of his staff, accompanying him, were wounded. The number of Constitutional officers killed is unusually great. General Trinidad Rodriguez, one of the best of Villa's brigade commanders, was shot through the throat and is not expected to live.

The Constitutionalists, in many cases, had to advance on hands and knees as those below on the steep inclines passed the rifles from hand to hand. These feats were accomplished under heavy machine gun fire.

CONFIRMS FALL OF ZACATECAS

Washington, June 25.—Official dispatches from Consular Agent Carrothers and Consul Edwards, at El Paso, reporting the taking of Zacatecas by General Villa, were received here today.

LAWRENCE "CHIPPY" ROBINSON.

Lawrence "Chippy" Robinson, who now languishes in the Boston city prison under heavy guard, indicted for the cold-blooded murder of Police Inspector Thomas Norton, and wanted in Grand Rapids, Mich., for shooting down three jewelry clerks who offered resistance while Robinson and a companion were robbing the store.

The pictures were taken while Robinson was a convict, presumably in the Kentucky penitentiary. Similar pictures were sent broadcast throughout the United States by the Pinkerton Detective Agency.

Robinson obtained the name of "Chippy" through his love for diamonds, and is known among his pals as "Diamond Chip" and "Chippy Rob". Some of the half score aliases under which Robinson went are: George Roberts, Albert Adams, Geo. Spencer, Walter E. Spencer, Albert Scott and Harry Burton.

When arrested in Boston Robinson was dressed in the height of fashion, and had been associating with Boston's "Four Hundred". Dispatches from Boston state that he had been attentive to seven well known Boston girls during his few weeks in Several copies of Boston newspapers, received by Mr. B. F. Leland from his son, Ed Leland, in Boston, give full details of the proceedings in Boston, and the Robinson case has proven the sensation of the year.

One snapshot taken of the man when he was in the hands of the officers shows him holding his hands over his face to prevent it showing in the picture.

The statement was carried by one of the papers that the man had plenty of money on his person when arrested, and that there would, in all probability, be a deluge of money sent by pals to assist him in fighting the case. He is regarded as one of the biggest crooks in the United States. A picture of one of the girls with whom he had been keeping company is shown in one of the papers.

1 KILLED TWENTY INJURED

By Associated Press.

Lorain, O., June 25.—One man was killed, another fatally injured and twenty other persons were seriously hurt today, when an eastbound car on the Lake Shore Electric Railway got beyond control on the street grade leading to the subway under the Nickel Plate Railroad tracks, two miles west of here, jumped the track and tipped over.

The dead man, Motorman Elias Hopp, died at a hospital soon after the accident. He stuck to his post vainly trying to use the air brakes which refused to work.

The big interurban, as it jumped the track and rolled over, crashed against the concrete wall of the tunnel, the front half being reduced to tinder. Most of the passengers were returning from picnics. All on board were cut or bruised.

This is the second serious wreck occurring in the same spot in the last few years, the first taking place under identical circumstances.

DEATH REAPS RICH HARVEST

By Associated Press.

Los Angeles, June 25.—At the foot of a hundred-foot bluff on the ocean beach near San Pedro, Cal., the bodies of three women and a man, victims of an automobile accident, were found today. The automobile, a new car driven by Harry Baker, of San Pedro, had plunged over the bluff late last night, killing the four. It was Baker's first trip in the machine.

WANT VOTE ON MONDAY

By Associated Press.

Columbus, June 25.—Plans for campaigns in every state, and with the Federal government, to change voting days from Tuesday to Monday, were formulated today by the Supreme Council of United Commercial Travelers, in session here. More than 100,000 of the 150,000 members of the order in the country, are virtually disenfranchised by the present voting day because they cannot remain at their homes until Tuesday, officials said.

COBB PAID STIFF FINE

By Associated Press.

Detroit, Mich., June 25.—Ty Cobb the widely known baseball player, pleaded guilty today to a charge of disturbing the peace in Justice court, and paid a $50 fine. Had he not paid he would have had to stand 6 months in the house of correction. The charge was made against Cobb by William L. Carpenter, in whose meat shop the ballplayer caused the disturbance Saturday night.

CRASHING FAILURE OF BIG RETAILERS

By Associated Press.

New York, June 25.—The great dry goods house of The H. B. Chaffin Company failed today with liabilities of $35,000,000. The assets are estimated at $40,000,000. Two proceedings, friendly and unfriendly, threw the firm into bankruptcy and two receivers were named under bonds of $500,000 each.

The Chaffin company controls, or is affiliated with some thirty retail stores throughout the United States, and it was the endorsement of their paper, held by more than 3,000 banks here and in interior cities, that caused the crash.

The United Dry Goods Companies and the Associated Merchants' Company, though affiliated with the Chaffin Company through stock control, were in no way involved in the failure. Their chain of stores, it was said in financial districts would remain intact. Unless blocked by creditors, a reorganization of the firm is contemplated, according to a statement issued by John Chaffin, the president.

The court acted as the result of a suit in equity filed in the District Court. Judge Hand named as receivers, Joseph B. Martindale, president of the Chemical National Bank and Frederick A. Jullard, a member of the firm of A. B. Jullard and Company, under bonds of $500,000 each.

The H. B. Chaffin Company, of which John Chaffin is president, was organized in 1890 to conduct a wholesale dry goods business. It is controlled by the Associated Merchants Company which is in turn controlled by the United Dry Goods Companies. The United Dry Goods Companies was incorporated May 21, 1909, to consolidate the dry goods interests of John Chaffin in New York and other cities. The company acquired, in exchange for $9,813,000 of its common stock, a like amount of the capital stock of the Associated Merchants Company, giving it a majority, the latter already holding control of the H. B. Chaffin company. The James McCreery Company, The O'Neill-Adams Company, The C. G. Gunther Sons, all of New York, and several other companies.

The total net income of 1913 was $2,083,781. Dividends on preferred stock were $754,883, and on common stock $1,154,200, a final surplus of $174,698.

Almost simultaneous with the filing of the suit in equity John Muller, William Worth and Albert F. Bergner, all of New York, filed an involuntary petition of bankruptcy against the firm. The company owes Muller, according to the petition, $731. Worth is creditor for $3,131, while Bergner's claim are given as $28,370.

The receivership caused a flurry in the financial district although rumors that something was impending were rife all day yesterday.

Announcement was made this afternoon that all of the so-called Chaffin stores, strictly speaking, would be closed, pending adjustment of the company's affairs.

ACCUSE VETERANS OF PLAYING POLITICS

Complaint comes from Chillicothe that in the election of officers, some of the Spanish American war veterans played "up-state politics", and members of the Chillicothe camp were somewhat peeved because they were completely left out in the election of officers.

The election, scheduled for the afternoon, was held Wednesday morning, presumably upon the call of the Cleveland delegates, and the act was regarded with much ill favor by members of the Chillicothe camp. It is usually a show of appreciation for entertainment, to elect a member of the camp in which the encampment is held, to some minor office, and this was not done. William Wolcott, of Chillicothe, had been slated for senior vice commander.

The following officers were elected: Charles A. Gebauer of Cleveland, Department commander; James E. Oates, Toledo, senior vice commander; Henry Behrens, Middletown, junior vice; Robert Davis, Cincinnati, inspector; Rev. John Frederick, Glendale, chaplain; Henry M. Taylor, Athens, surgeon; Howard Gilbert, Columbus, marshal; Judge M. S. Matthias, Van Wert, judge advocate, and four delegates at large to the National convention at Louisville, John G. DeCamp, Hamilton; David Lynch, Postoria, John Noll, Cincinnati, and Henry Balless, Columbus. Mansfield was selected for the encampment next year.

DEFINITELY AVERT WAR WITH MEXICO

Protocol Signed By American and Mexican Delegates.

Niagara Falls, Ont., June 25.—The first three articles of the peace plan prepared by the A. B. C. group of South American mediators were signed by the American and Mexican delegates. At the end of the conference Envoy Da Gama of Brazil, the ranking diplomat among the mediators, said:

"We have signed three articles of the protocol of the plan of pacification concerning the international side of the Mexican problem."

The conference will break up today

so far as the mediators are concerned. Ambassador Da Gama will leave in the evening for Long Branch for his summer vacation, but Dr. Naon, the Argentine minister, and Senor Suarez, minister of Chile, will remain here for a few days. Senor Da Gama will not return except if his presence is needed, nor will the other two mediators. All three held that they have accomplished their aim and have definitely averted an international conflict.

The protocol provides for a constitutional government in Mexico, immediate recognition of same on the part of the United States and restoration of diplomatic relations between the two countries; that the United States shall not claim any war indemnity and that the provisional government will grant amnesty to all foreigners for any political offenses committed during the period of the Mexican civil war. The provisional government will negotiate for the settlement of claims of foreigners on account of damages sustained during the period of the civil war.

HOUSE OPPOSES SUMMER SESSION

Washington, June 25.—Opposition to the administration plan to keep congress in session during the summer has taken concrete form in the house. A petition has been circulated by Representative Ashbrook of Ohio praying the committee on rules not to report any more special rules at this time. One hundred and twenty-five Democrats already have signed the petition. If the petition is favorably acted upon by the rules committee, the prohibition amendment and other important measures will be sidetracked for the session. Those who are thus protesting against President Wilson's purpose to force congress to stay in session until fall propose that after the appropriation and conservation bills have been passed the house shall recess for three days at a time until the senate has passed the trust bills. The three day recess plan would enable members to get back to their districts to look after their political fences.

Number of Persons Are Killed and Property Destroyed.

Chicago, June 25.—Seven deaths, scores of persons injured, crop damage amounting to thousands of dollars and heavy damage to buildings were caused in an electrical and windstorm that swept Minnesota and Wisconsin from the northwest. Communication between many cities was cut off on account of the prostration of telegraph and telephone wires. It is feared that a still larger loss of life will be reported when the full extent of the storm is known.

In Minneapolis Miss Loretta Grams, Margaret Kelly and Louis Grams were drowned when the wind overturned their canoe. Esther Munson was killed when her home collapsed.

Two deaths were reported at Wausau, Wis., when a barn in which a country wedding was being celebrated was demolished. Another death was reported from Green Lake, Wis.

The storm struck Watertown, S. D., with its full force and demolished 300 buildings, composing sixteen city blocks. Scores of persons were reported seriously injured.

Reports from Appleton, Watertown, Wisconsin, Eau Claire, Oshkosh, Wausau, Madison, Fond Du Lac, Marinette and Milwaukee indicate that the property damage will be extensive.

FOUNDRY BURNS

Marion, O., June 25.—The foundry and core room of the Huber Manufacturing company was practically destroyed by fire. The loss will reach $25,000 and several hundred men will be thrown out of work temporarily. Lack of water pressure was responsible for most of the loss.

Washington, June 25.—Senator Allee Pomerene of Ohio announced that he expects to make a speech in the senate in opposition to the proposed exemption of labor unions and farmers' organizations from prosecutions under the Sherman anti-trust law. If he does this he will probably be the only Democratic senator to take such a stand. Mr. Pomerene holds that there should be no exemption whatever and he said that he is proceeding with the preparation of his speech.

SWAIN FAVORS EQUAL SUFFRAGE

Warren, O., June 25.—Speaker C. L. Swain of the Ohio house of representatives has declared himself for woman suffrage in answer to a query mailed by the state suffrage organization. "I am greatly encouraged to believe that the amendment we are getting ready to put up to the people of Ohio will be adopted," writes Swain. "Anything that I can do to bring this about I shall be only too glad to do."

Holds Him Most Useful Member of Progressive Party.

HE WON'T HAVE HIM READ OUT

Bull Moose Leader Issues Statement on Political Situation on His Arrival From Europe—Denounces the Colombian Treaty and Foreign Policy of Wilson Administration—Colonel in Good Physical Condition.

New York, June 25.—Colonel Roosevelt, health improved, arrived on the big liner Imperator and was immediately placed on board William H. Childs' yacht Joyance, which took him to Oyster Bay.

With the return of the colonel from his son Kermit's wedding in Spain two questions of extraordinary interest to members of the Progressive party as well as to the older parties were answered by the colonel himself in characteristic fashion.

Will he stand by George W. Perkins, though the Pinchots and other foremost Progressives are reading Mr. Perkins out of the party? He will, he said.

"Mr. Perkins has been on the whole the most useful member of the Progressive party. He has striven in good faith for the principles of the party both as regards corporations and business generally and as regards the group of questions dealing with the welfare of the wage worker and his economic and social advance. As for reading him out of the party, when that is done they will have to read me out, too."

If there was any doubt left as to Colonel Roosevelt's position as to being a candidate for governor, he did his best to shatter them with this laconic statement: "Governor? I thought I had answered that fully. I will not run for governor."

Colonel Roosevelt looked to be in excellent physical condition. "When I came aboard," he said, "I had a slight relapse of fever and a few hours later a severe relapse. At that time my temperature was 105. I had to keep to my rooms. But I am absolutely all right now. I shall speak in Pittsburgh on June 30. I shall be able to make a certain number of speeches indoors."

With regard to the treaty with Colombia Colonel Roosevelt said:

"The payment of $25,000,000 to Colombia, together with the expression of what is in effect an apology for our having secured the right to build the Panama canal, is merely the belated payment of blackmail with an apology to the blackmailers. If this proposed treaty submitted by President Wilson through Mr. Bryan is right, then our presence on the isthmus is wrong. In such case Panama should at once be restored to Colombia and we should stop work on the canal and abandon the place, bag and baggage.

"The handling of our foreign affairs by President Wilson and Secretary Bryan has been such as to make the United States a figure of fun in the international world. This proposed Colombian treaty caps the climax."

LAND OF "EL DORADO"

The lure of gold has never been the basis for brave exploits and bold adventure, and often about it has been woven the enticing web of mystery and myth to add to the zest of its pursuit. The ancient Argonauts sailed in search of the mythical Golden Fleece, while the golden apples of the mysterious Hesperides lured on the giant Hercules. The bold Phoenicians sailed to the shores of Spain to gather a golden harvest for the merchant of Syria, and the old Semitic navigators sailed out from the Red Sea to seek it at Tarshish and in the famed mines of Aphir, whose location is even now a mystery. The Portuguese as early as the middle of the 15th century brought gold from the west coast of Africa, and it was to find a sea route to the gold and spice laden shores of the Far East that Vasco de Gama sailed around the Cape of Good Hope and Columbus finally embarked to venture into unknown seas upon that memorable voyage of 1492. The discovery of the New World had added a new stimulus to the unceasing, restless search for wealth, and in the marvelous tales of pearls and jewels rare and glittering golden ornaments decorating simple savages who knew but little of their value, the adventurous and credulous conquistadores saw a glorious land of promise.

Among the most enticing of these tales was the one that Coquitos Indians told the earliest settlers of the colony of Coro, established by Juan de Ampues in 1527 on the narrow isthmus that connects the peninsula of Paraguana with the mainland about the Lake of Maracaibo in Venezuela. According to their stories, a tribe of fierce but wealthy Indians dwelt in the mountains some distance to the south, with whom gold was so abundant that they powdered the whole body of their chief with its dust. And thus was started the tale of "El Dorado," the gilded one, a tale which in its repeated telling grew into most wonderful fiction.

The Pennsylvania's Attitude

It is interesting to note that one of the great railroad systems of the country—one which carries on a railroad business and the management of which does not indulge in "plunging" on the stock market, is going ahead with vast improvements, putting on the newest and the latest equipments, new rails and new crossties, reballasting its tracks wherever needed, taking out curves, reducing grades and the like—is taking very little part in the movement for higher rates.

While the management of many other roads are devoting all their time and energy toward convincing the Interstate Commerce Commission that they must be given permission to charge higher rates or the stockholders will not draw their dividends, while the managers of many other railroad systems are permitting their road-beds and rolling stock to run down, failing to handle trains on schedule time and losing a world of business in consequence, the Pennsylvania is handling all of its business and going forward with the work of preparing to handle more business.

The result is inevitable.

The Pennsylvania will be equipped to handle the big rush of business when it comes and the other roads will not. The earnings of the Pennsylvania will be largely increased at the expense of the other roads who fail to keep pace with the changes in business conditions.

The trouble with so many of the other railroads is that the promoters and managers have over-capitalized the companies and made their individual profits out of the sale of stock, the issuance of which was not warranted by the valuation of the physical property of the road or its earning capacity.

The men who sold the stock and made millions for themselves, who operated railroads, simply as an aid to their stock-jobbing schemes, while the men in control of the Pennsylvania operated a railroad on a business basis for railroad purposes, are now either frantically asking an increase in the minimum rate limit or have left the stockholders, to whom they sold, to work out the solution of the problem.

It's the old, old story—the men who stayed out of the stock jobbing game have their business well in hand and the ones who played the market prospered for a while, but are now called on to settle the bill.

Keeping Cool in Hot Weather

One of the most comforting things to possess during the heated terms such as we are now enduring, is a sweet temper.

To keep cool mentally and temperamentally these sweltering days and nights is considered almost as difficult as it is to keep cool physically.

It is the easiest thing in the world for a man to start a row with his wife or for a wife to start a row with her husband, for business and social associates and friends to disagree seriously over trivial matters, this kind of weather.

It is difficult to keep one's temper cool, when the thermometer is on a balloon trip up near the one hundred degree mark. It is more difficult because so many other people either do not try or, trying, fail to contril their tempers and take a fiendish delight in hurling all of their pent up bad humor directly at the ones who are holding themselves and their tempers under control.

The man who can go through the day's grind of business and come home in the evening in a really good humor in weather like this is the possessor of a stock of self-control that will make him famous.

The good house wife who can and does have all the "kiddies" dressed up in cool summer garments and has attired herself in some fluffy, lace trimmed, cool looking summer dress, has everything in ship-shape after spending the hot hours of the day stemming, seeding and canning cherries or some other equally delightful pastime, and is cheerful, smiling and in a good humor—well—she is the kind of a wife to have.

Keeping cool mentally will aid one materially to keep cool physically and it is easy to do, too.

Many people make a serious mistake when they sit around and complain about the weather and permit themselves to fret over every little thing that goes wrong.

If folks would only convince themselves that things could be much worse and that they are pretty lucky after all—concentrate their thoughts on agreeable subjects and magnify the pleasant phases of life, rather than the unpleasant, their would be more comfort and less complaint, and fewer rows, while the hot weather holds this section in its grasp.

Try to hold your temper even if it is "hot" and see how much it helps you and how much it helps others too.

Poetry For Today

CARE AND WORRY.

You have heard of Care and Worry—dark visitors they say,
Who stalk about familiar as Hamlet's ghost at play.
They come and tarry with you, unbidden and unmasked,
And flaunt their gaunt arms o'er you—add weight to every task.
They watch the rays of sunshine, and guard your open door,
Lest Light and Hope may enter and sing the songs of yore.
Close friends are Care and Worry, they laugh and dance with glee,
And pile the faggots higher at each white lock they see.
They glory in the shadows their black robes fling about,
And while the cloud is o'er you they laugh and dance and shout.
They ever walk before you, for should they fall behind,
Their forms would vanish from you like mist before the wind.
But over on the other side wait Love and Hope and Joy,
Mother and wife and sister, and little Bob, your boy.
The robin sings in the willow and the skylark chants his lay,
And flowers blossom about you from the morn till close of day.
Fling back at Care and Worry their black robes of despair,
And know as the years pass swiftly God's hand hath rested there.
Smooth out the great deep furrows cut wide on brow and cheek,
For trouble lies in the valley—you are nearing the mountain peak.
—Tit-Bits.

SITUATION UP IN AIR

Columbus, June 25.—All hopes for a complete settlement of the wage difficulties of Ohio coal operators and miners were shattered suddenly when eastern Ohio operators and those of the Cambridge district withdrew from the joint wage conference.

The long expected break between the operators has left the coal mining situation in an uncertain stage. Those withdrawing from the conference announced they have finished negotiations with representatives of the miners' union. They represent an annual output of about 20,000,000 tons.

Operators in the Hocking, Pomeroy, Jackson, Crooksville and a part of the Bergholz districts remained in the conference and will attempt to make a scale for these districts. Little hope, however, was expressed that an agreement can be reached for these districts. Several operators expressed the belief that a mistake had been made by the eastern and Cambridge operators in withdrawing. They insisted that all should have stood together.

After the eastern Ohio and Cambridge operators had withdrawn, those remaining asked the miners' representatives to name their terms. They still insisted on the original proposal of 49.64 cents for mine run machine mined coal. Operators declared they could not possibly meet these figures, and suggested 43 cents a ton. This is an increase of 1.88 cents per ton over what previously had been offered, which was 41.12 cents. This proposal was declined by the miners, who insisted they are under instructions not to accept other than 49.64 cents.

It is reported that the miners may suggest that the mine run rate be ascertained by taking an average of screenings of the entire state. This method would produce a rate of about 45 cents, it was said. Operators of the four districts insist that, if a scale finally is agreed on, it shall be for the entire state and that no other district shall have a lower rate. National Secretary-Treasurer William Green has agreed to this proposal, but others of the miners' representatives have made no promises.

HARD NUT TO CRACK

Members Find Little Common Ground For Getting Together.

Washington, June 25. — After ten days' consideration of the Clayton anti-trust bill passed by the house, the senate judiciary committee is apparently no nearer a conclusion as to what it shall report to the senate than it was the day it took its first look at the measure.

The committee is badly divided on many of the subjects in the bill. The members have found little common ground for prohibition of interlocking directorates and holding companies and they have not finally agreed on how to prevent price fixing. The so called labor sections, designed to relieve labor from the Sherman law and to govern the issuance of injunctions in labor disputes, have led to endless argument. The prospect for an early agreement, some members of the committee say, is not rosy, and the sentiment against reporting any such measure at this time is growing.

There was talk again about an effort to have the president agree to limit the amount of anti-trust legislation at this session, but no concerted action has been taken by Democrats on the committee to this end.

CYCLONE MISSES CITY BY HAIRBREADTH TODAY

Shorter Drops Down on Lewis Pike Just Outside the City and Creates Havoc—Dairy Barn Torn From Foundation—Tornado Accompanied by Heavy Hail Storm Which Ruins Crops—Man Picked Up by Wind and Hurlled Over Fence.

Washington nearly experienced another cyclone at the noon hour Thursday, when a tornado swept over a strip of territory just outside of the city on the Lewis Pike, tearing great trees up by the roots, snapping others off, damaging buildings, fences and causing great alarm among the citizens of the neighborhood.

The tornado was accompanied by a terrific hail storm, which beat the crops into the earth and virtually ruined them. The storm zone covered a small strip of territory from east to west.

The tornado came in the nature of a funnel shaped cloud, which dropped down near the point where the B. & O. crosses the Lewis pike.

On the Davies farm, William Hayford, employed by Isaac Crispin, was in the field when the storm struck. He was lifted from his feet and carried some two rods, when he was hurled to the ground on the opposite side of the fence from where he was. He was stunned for a few moments, but not otherwise injured.

At the P. R. Armbrust dairy the large dairy barn was twirled off the foundation and nearly wrecked. Many large trees were torn down in the timber nearby. A large plate glass in Mr. Armbrust's residence was blown in.

On several of the adjoining farms the tornado swept fences away, tore up trees and played havoc generally.

On the Armbrust, Campbell and Davies farms the crops were pounded to pieces by the deluge of small hail stones.

The trend of the twister was from east to west.

FARM HANDS GIVEN FINES

Good Hope, Greenfield and Bainbridge Men, Who Have Been in Habit of Creating Trouble on D. T. & I. Trains Between This City and Bainbridge, Arrested and Draw Stiff Fines.

George Watkins, Nip Yates and five of their boon companions faced Squire Kirsch Wednesday morning and paid varying sums for the privilege of seeing him. The gang has been terrorizing people on the D. T. & I. trains for some time, and, on Decoration Day, wound up with a free fight, between Bainbridge and Greenfield.

The men were arrested early Wednesday morning by Sheriff Stoker and D. T. & I. Detective J. F. Brown and brought to the county jail. The officers started Tuesday night but had an auto accident and caught the men in the harvest field in the morning.

The men have been guilty for some time of getting on the train at Greenfield, going to Bainbridge, loading up with liquor and terrorizing everyone on the trip back. It is thought that all were bootleggers.

The men, all intoxicated, started a fight Decoration Day. Oscar Tarlton, 43, white, of Good Hope, cut Ernest Scott, colored, 26, of Greenfield, across the face with a pen-knife. They got off at Greenfield, McCray, one of the party, being forced off at the point of the express messenger's revolver.

George Watkins, 51, colored, of Bainbridge, was fined $10 and costs, totaling $24.33. Nip Yates, 40, white, of Greenfield, was fined $25 and costs, a total of $3.88. The remainder were all given $15 and costs a total of $33.28. They are: Earl Jewell, 23, colored, of Greenfield; Oscar Tarlton, Charles McGray, 19, colored, of Greenfield, Ernest Scott and Roy Hudson.

Hudson and Yates have been trouble-makers for some time. All are farm hands.—Chillicothe News.

MATINEE SEASON OPENED WEDNESDAY

With Light But Fast Bunch of Entries—Rextell Wins in A Trot, Georgia Fly in B Trot and Posey in C Pace.

A warm sun, a good track and a fast field of entries marked the opening of the matinee racing season in Washington C. H. Wednesday afternoon. Because of the fact that most of Fayette's horsemen are farmers and are now busy in the fields the attendance was light but a continuance of speedy performers such as Wednesday's should draw out the enthusiasts in force.

Rextell, formerly a favorite on the Springfield matinee track, won the A trot in three straight heats with Los Crone up, best time, 2:25. In the B trot, Georgia Fly, with Harry Taylor up, took the two heats straight, best time 2:30. Posey, with Peasley Stokesberry driving, won from Sunday Johnson, Tilden Richards up, in two straights in the C pace, in 1:10 and 1:14 1/4.

The results follow:

CLASS A TROT.
Rextell, by Axins (Crone) . . . 1 1 1
Hortense Bell, by Rhythmic Bell (Barr) . . . . . 3 2 2
Star Simmons (Allen) . . . . . 2 3 3
Time—2:28, 2:25, 2:25.

CLASS B TROT.
Georgia Fly, by Wallace McKinney (Taylor) . . . . . 1 1

PASSING TRAIN FRIGHTENS TEAM

A team of horses hitched to the Pyley moving van became frightened at a passing train, while standing at the Pennsylvania depot early Wednesday evening, and ran away. Mr. Pyley was inside the depot at the time and emerged too late to stop his outfit which was going down South Main street at high speed. The animals were stopped just outside the corporation line. No damage resulted from the runaway.

FAMOUS CASE SETTLED IN THE SUPREME COURT

Case of Inez VanPelt et al. Against Mary H. Rogers et al. Decided in Favor of Defendants—150 Acres of Valuable Land Together With One of County's Best Known Residences, Involved in the Suit.

The case of Inez VanPelt, Ella E. Klever, Humphrey Jones and Humphrey Jones, trustee as plaintiffs vs. Mary H. Rogers, Joseph D. Rogers, Lee H. Rogers, Alexander Rogers, John M. Rogers, Ina Goddard, John Hyde, James Draise, J. L. Hess and Ernest Hess as defendants which has been in the courts for the past five years was decided by the Supreme court this week, Tuesday.

This case has perhaps attracted more attention than any other civil case that has gone up from Fayette county for many years.

The heirs of Caroline Parrett, wife of Augustus Parrett and daughter of Peter Hess, and Humphrey Jones as trustee, attempted to recover 150 acres of land, on which is located the Joseph D. Rogers residence on the Danville pike, purchased and held by the parties above named, as defendants. The heirs of Caroline Parrett claimed that the land had come to them through a fee tail estate created by deed from their grandfather to their mother in 1847, and that an attempt on Caroline Parrett's part to reconvey the land to her father, Peter Hess was of no avail and that the title still remained in them. The suit was tried in the Court of Common Pleas of this county in 1909, and decision rendered by Judge Clarence Curtin in favor of the defendants. Plaintiffs then took the case to the Court of Appeals where it was tried before Judges Dustin, Ferneding and Allread, decision being rendered in favor of plaintiffs.

On Tuesday of this week a final decision was given by the Supreme court in favor of the defendants with judgment for costs.

Hon. Humphrey Jones represented the plaintiffs and Messrs. Post & Reid and Creamer, Creamer & Thompson the defendants.

342 CANINES IN THE CITY

According to the assessors' returns there are 342 dogs in the city, virtually all of which are not valued by their owners—the assessors were informed.

Some inquiry has been made at the District Assessor's office by parties who believed the number listed as being valuable, was the total number.

The returns by wards are: 1st ward 104; 2nd ward 90; 3rd ward 70; 4th ward 78. Of the total number 55 are females.

WINNING CLASS ROYALLY BANQUETED

Notable in its pleasure and significant of a memorable membership campaign, was the banquet of the First Baptist church Sunday school, given at the I. O. O. F. hall Wednesday night, terminating as it did a term of strenuous activity among the various classes.

The girls' class of Miss Mary DeWees distinguished itself by bringing in the largest number of new members and teacher and pupils were the honored guests of the entire school.

The tables, prettily decorated, were arranged in a circle with the honor table at which were seated Miss DeWees and her class, in the center.

The class color, pink, was effectively used in festoons and carnations on the table, and tiny baskets held pink confectios.

The supper hour was made merry with many pretty compliments extended to the winning class. Miss DeWees responded appreciatively.

A hundred and fifty plates were served, a few of the church people joining with the Sunday school members.

The menu was delicious, meeting with the guests' unqualified approval. An entertaining program after the dinner included piano duets by Misses Dorothy Wyatt and Gertrude Miller, piano solos by Miss Mabel Briggs, vocal quartets by Messrs. Hicks, Burch, Davenport and Hicks, and a duet, which closed the program by Mrs. J. H. Hicks and Miss Briggs.

The general committee having the banquet in charge was made up of Mrs. Wesley DeWees, chairman; Messdames Hildebrandt, Briggs, Davenport and Hicks.

FARMER FACES SERIOUS CHARGE

William Shockey, a well known farmer of Perry township, came into the city Thursday morning to face an ugly charge placed against him by Mrs. Mary Lyons, of near New Martinsburg.

The warrant was issued upon an affidavit filed by Mrs. Lyons Wednesday in which she charged that Shockey assaulted her with criminal intent, the alleged assault she claimed occurred on June 16th at her home.

The warrant was placed in the hands of Sheriff Nelson and when he arrived at Shockey's home Wednesday afternoon and found him busy in the wheat field, he allowed him to go upon promise that he appear here Thursday morning, which he did, retaining Gregg, Patton & Gregg.

When he appeared before Justice T. N. Craig he entered a plea of not guilty and was bound over to the Common Pleas court. Bond was furnished and he was released.

He denies the charge against him. Shockey is a married man with several children, and resides on the Marvin King farm. He is about 50 years of age.

It is claimed that Shockey and the father of Mrs. Lyons had some trouble a few years ago.

The affair has created somewhat of a sensation in the New Martinsburg neighborhood.

OUR NEW FIELD GUN.

Its Split Trail Makes It a Wonderfully Efficient Weapon.

What is thought to be the biggest single improvement made in the artillery service in a decade is comprised in the new field gun recently adopted by the United States government. The carriage of this gun has a double or split trail, the word "trail" being used to designate the long beam or prop that supports the gun on the ground at the rear. The old style single trail prevented any great lowering of the gun breech and therefore limited the angle to which the muzzle could be elevated.

With the split trail the breech drops down between the halves, and any elevation of the muzzle that is necessary may be obtained. By means of a hand wheel the gun may be swung quickly and easily in a wide horizontal arc without shifting the trail, which is another great improvement over the old style carriage. The gunners are thoroughly shielded by steel plates only two-tenths of an inch in thickness, but of such strength and toughness that they cannot be penetrated by a steel jacketed, needle nosed bullet fired from a service rifle at a distance of 100 yards. Even the gunner who sights the piece is not exposed. By a system of mirrors and prisms the telescope sight zigzags upward and passes out through a port in the shield a foot or more above the gunner's head.

The projectile fired by this gun is three inches in diameter and about one foot long, but contains enough explosive and balls to wipe out a whole company.—Popular Mechanics.

Tale of a Tail of a Stuffed Horse.

The stuffed representation of Napoleon's famous charger, Vizier, having worn out its third tail since its master's death, has recently been supplied with a fourth flowing appendage for the benefit of visitors to Paris. Vizier, except for its tail, is the "authentic" war horse ridden by Napoleon. After the animal's death the skin was stuffed and placed among the Napoleonic collection in the Invalides museum, and it became one of the objects which attract most of the attention of visitors. Of the three tails that have already disappeared at the hands of sightseers, despite the vigilance of the guardians, it is believed that at least two are in America in small detachments.

Mrs. Uptump (to hostess)—That grizzly faced brute standing over there at the door had such poor taste as to refuse to get me a glass of water. Surely you didn't intend to invite such a man to your reception?

Mrs. Hostess—Don't fret, my dear, I didn't invite him. He is my husband.—Calumet.

Entitled to It.

The small boy was seeing, for the first time, a picture of Atlas supporting the earth. After looking at it for a minute he turned to his father and asked, "Why doesn't he take his base?" "What do you mean?" "Don't you know the rule, pop, when a man has been hit by a pitched ball?"—Puck.

Thirty children spent a merry afternoon on the large lawn of the home on the Creek road, playing games and indulging in a peanut hunt.

A refreshing luncheon was served and fruit punch all afternoon.

Assisting Mrs. Haines in entertaining the children were Misses Ivah and Juanita Haines, Ethel Moore and Mary Fisher.

Washington friends received cards Thursday morning announcing the marriage of Mr. Harold Bradfute, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bradfute, and Miss Elsie Jackson, of Columbus.

Rev. Thomas performed the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Bradfute will make their home in Columbus, where Mr. Bradfute is engaged in business.

Wednesday seemed to be a favorite day for Sunday school class parties.

The young girls of Mrs. Eva Penn's Sunday school class were indebted to their teacher for a most delightful afternoon on the cool, shady porch and beautiful lawn of her home.

Lemonade served all afternoon was most refreshing, and a dainty summer collation was also served.

Miss Elsie Craig took her class of young girls to Lost Bridge for a merry afternoon's picnic.

The girls thoroughly enjoyed the out-of-door gathering and Miss Craig served a tempting summer luncheon.

WILL DELIVER CLASS ADDRESS

Rev. W. B. Gage of the First Presbyterian church, will deliver the class address at the Boxwell commencement at Madison Mills Friday night.

FIRST TWO-ROW PLANTER INVENTED IN ROSS

The meeting of the Ross County Crop Improvement Association was one of the most interesting of any yet held. The principal talk was given by Major J. C. Foster, president of the organization on his own personal experience with the methods of farming as practiced years ago.

Cattle in the early days, as he remembered, were fattened on corn fodder mostly, and driven over the mountains to the market at Baltimore. The call of the drivers might be heard constantly everywhere almost, he said, about this time of the year as the herds were being driven on their way to market.

Corn, then, was cut by hand and, dropped, not carried and shocked, as the later method. Other men would follow the cutters, gather up the corn and shock it. Occasionally the corn would be husked on the stalk, but this practice was the exception.

In such cases, however, the stalks would be cut with hoes in the spring before tilling the land again.

He described a striking contrast between the early farm machinery and that used at present. The first breaking plough used were of wooden points and mould boards.

Later comes the "ground hog" plough with the cast iron point and then the all iron ones. The sulky came into use in the early '60's, but was not a success at that time. After the ground was broken, it received very little preparation for planting. The corn was dropped by hand and covered either by hoes or in the larger fields by means of a jumper. This was a small plough like affair, which would be dropped in the ground between the hills, then jerked out and the dirt would fall on the corn.

The first two-row corn planter made in the United States, as he remembers, was made by a man named Moffet at Richmond Dale. It was somewhat crude, but apparently successful. Considerable litigation over the patent resulted with some man in the east.

The first clover grown in the Scioto Valley was by Thomas Foster, grandfather of Major Foster and the seed was given him by Mr. Van Meter, a grandfather of Judge Van Meter. Many interesting personal experiences of his early days were related by the speaker. The next meeting will be held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms at 2 o'clock, July 7. Abe Gehres will deliver a talk at that time.—Chillicothe News.

PERSONAL CHARACTERISTICS OF OHIO'S STRENUOUS GOVERNOR

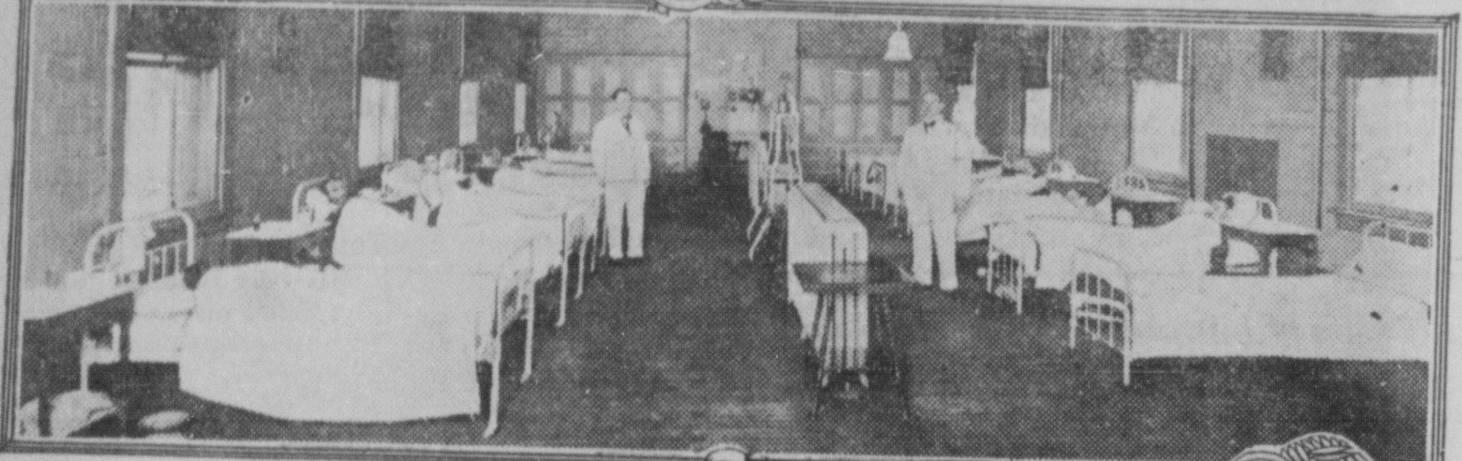

How Hon. James M. Cox Manages To Do More Work Than Any Other Man Who Has Been Governor—A Man of Unique Emotions and of Indomitable Courage—His Attitude Toward Convicts Typical of His Humane Ideas

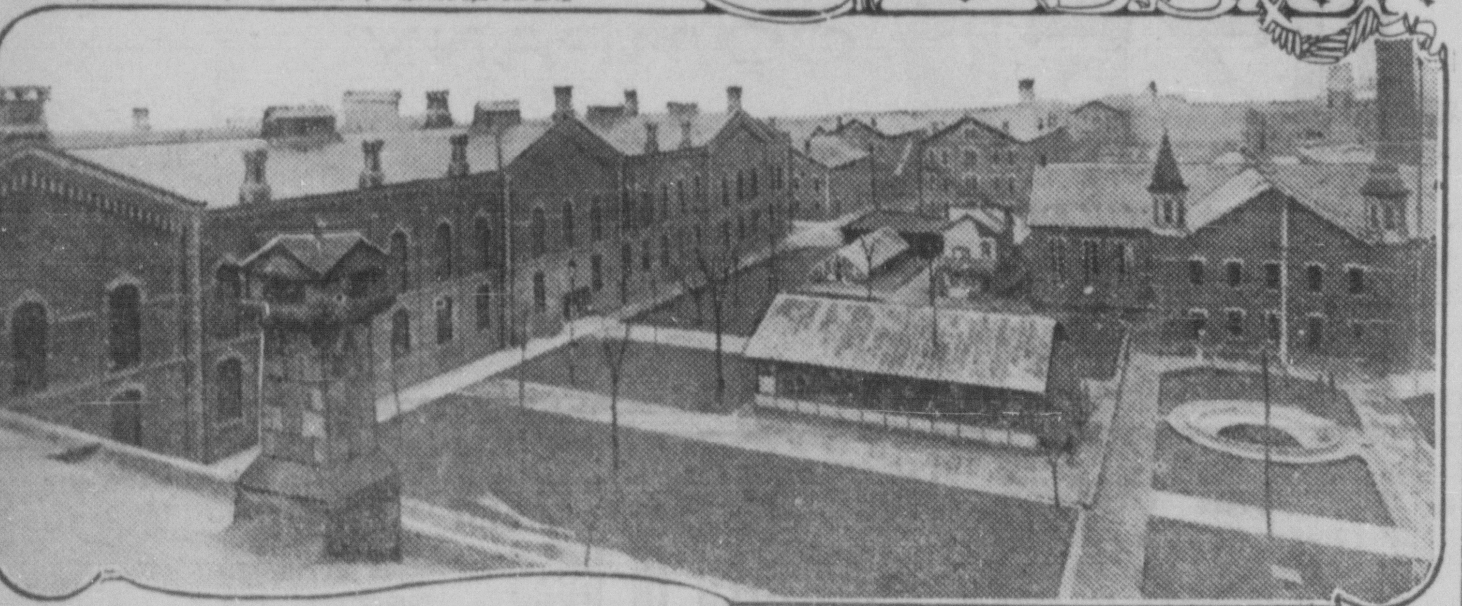

PRISONERS AT OHIO STATE PRISON AT SCHOOL

GOV. JAMES M. COX

MODEL HOSPITAL AT STATE PENITENTIARY

EXTERIOR VIEW OHIO STATE PENITENTIARY

Back in 1905, a few days after the opening of the congress at Washington, a brand new member from Ohio got up to make a speech. Deliberately he dared to defy the precedent which commanded new members to be seen and not heard. The galleries peered down curiously and the other new members trembled at the audacity of their colleague. Old timers frowned dubiously. But the new Ohio member went right on with his speech, commanded the close attention of the house and finally got a good "hand" for his effort. Speaking of the episode later Champ Clark declared that only once before within his remembrance had a similar thing been successfully done.

Four years later the same Ohio congressman was elected governor of this state. Sweeping through a whirlwind campaign, he had defied precedent again. He had set aside the old rule which enjoined candidates for governor to hark back to the glorious achievements of his party's past. Instead he had championed a new state constitution, had espoused the direct nomination by the voters of all elected officials, advocated the initiative and referendum, home rule for cities, jury reform, the regulation of saloons by license, the abolition of prison contract labor and many other so-called reforms. He had tied his fortunes to the change in the basic law of the state. And so doing, he had burned his bridges behind him.

Poise, aggressiveness, the courage to do and dare—these things Gov. Cox possesses in a superlative degree. They may have made for him bitter enemies as they made for Theodore Roosevelt. But whatever they have brought about, whether personal good or ill, whether a disproportionate number of enemies or a super number of friends, they are his attributes, just as much a part of him as his human nature, and they'll always, of course, remain with him.

As a character study, the governor of Ohio is strikingly unique. His pictures show only a part of him. Some of them flatter him a bit for he isn't quite so handsome as a few of them make him out. All of them indicate intense earnestness, but only a few of them succeed in bringing out the almost reckless pertinacity that has characterized Cox as a public official. Neither do the photographs show the Rooseveltian energy that has been one of the biggest assets in the carrying out of the so-called Cox program of legislative enactment. Only face to face does the observer catch the impression of reserve physical strength and mental buoyancy indicated in the flush of face, the alertness of carriage, the facility of movement.

Tremendous physical energy permits Gov. Cox to stand up under stupendous strains. It is extremely doubtful if any of his predecessors during the last twenty years would have been able physically to sustain the pace which the present governor has set. For no matter how harshly his specific accomplishments may be attacked, the effort back of the accomplishments stands out. Witness the strenuous campaign for election in 1912, the regular session of the general assembly right afterward, the great flood before the session was over, then the vast preparation for the special session with its arduous labors. During the regular session of the 80th general assembly fifty-six major measures advocated by the governor were passed. The special session passed a score more of almost equal importance.

Whence comes the superlative energy that even the enemies of Cox are compelled to envy? Partly, no doubt, through inheritance. The governor's physique is robust, though not bulky. But much of the reserve strength comes from personal habits. At 7 in the morning comes a bath. The breakfast that follows is light. Then comes a brisk walk from home to office, something more than a mile. Particularly arduous official work is invariably followed when possible by a tramp through the fields or woods. Occasionally horseback riding offers relief to the long confinement of office. A hunting and fishing trip probably once a year affords relaxation for fagging mind and body.

But after all it is the daily routine of exercise that permits the governor to do such a great amount of confining work without visible impairment. Mere weather never interferes with his outdoor recreation. He will face a blinding blizzard or a drenching rain storm just as readily as he will greet the sunshine of a spring morning. He has been known many times to send his office corps home in an auto and himself to plunge afoot into the teeth of a storm after a day of heavy grind. This is the sort of life that permits him to be a fiend for work, to begin his duties every morning before nine, to labor on many times through the noon hour with only a hasty lunch brought in to his office, and to remain at his desk at night when the light in his office window shines out against the darkness of the rest of the capitol.

Many men are daring, aggressive and cold-blooded. A few are daring, aggressive and very human. Gov. Cox is among the few. His human side in many ways seems a paradox against his physical and what many people call his political audacity. Some people believe that his humanitarian side is too pronounced. There are some for example who argued that the governor transgressed on his official duties in his eagerness to relieve suffering during the Ohio floods. Not a few critical observers held that he erred when he asked the general assembly to permit money to be raised for flood relief and rehabilitation in excess of the one per cent law. But the New York papers and observers in many other parts of the country applauded the humanity of the Buckeye executive and the marvelous rapidity with which he brought order out of chaos. Listen, for instance, to a paragraph from a long eulogistic editorial that appeared in the New York World:

"The man who has dominated the situation in Ohio is Gov. Cox. He has been not only chief magistrate and commander in chief, but head of the life-saving service, the greatest provider of food and clothing that the state has ever known, the principal health officer, the sanest councillor, the severest disciplinarian, the hardest worker, the most hopeful prophet, the kindest philanthropist and the best reporter. He has performed almost incredible labors in all these fields and his illuminating dispatches to the world at the close of several heart-breaking days have given a clearer vision of conditions than could be had from any other source. A true Democrat, a great governor and a reporter who gets his story into the first edition, James M. Cox excites and is here with offered assurance of the world's most distinguished consideration."

Naturally conservative, the New York World never paid a higher tribute to any public official than this. But note the underlying fact that it was the humanitarian spirit of a governor that excites the editorial admiration as well as his executive ability.

The governor's sympathetic nature is displayed as graphically in his attitude toward the Ohio penitentiary and other state institutions as in his work during the floods. When the Cox administration began the penitentiary in particular was forbidding. Many of the inmates were in continued idleness and their faces depicted blank despair. Two of Cox's immediate predecessors had vetoed appropriations for a farm prison in the interests of economy. Gov. Cox talked in the prison chapel one Sunday almost immediately after his inauguration. He was deeply impressed by the hopelessness of the inmates. His talk to the prisoners indicated the depth of his feeling for them:

"We do not want any longer to coin dollars out of your tears or out of the anguish of the families you left when you were sent here," he said. "The state does not care to profit by the suffering you and your people have undergone. We want you to hear the morning chorus of the birds, to hark back to the crooning lullabies of your mothers. These things will do you more good than all of the stinging rebukes with which you were sent here."

The governor's speech has been taken up by prison reform societies all over the country. Other governors have quoted him word for word in pleading for better prison conditions. In fact it is declared that in some states of the enlightened Union at the present time penal conditions aren't much better than they were in the old Mexican prison which United States soldiers recently took over at Vera Cruz.

But, nevertheless, there were those who jeered at what they called sentimentality. They argued that prisons are prisons and that criminals fail to appreciate the finer sentiments.

Gov. Cox is sensitive to criticisms but he doesn't let them interfere with that he has in mind. In the penitentiary problem, his master skill in execution came into play as it had in the floods. To-day there is no corporal punishment in state institutions. Prisoners in the penitentiary not only are not idle, but part of the profits of their work is actually sent home to their families. This is what the governor meant when he said that the state didn't want to coin dollars out of suffering and tears. Moreover there is now a penitentiary school where gray-haired men learn their A B C's. And a farm prison soon is to be erected to replace completely the grimy stone walls of the present institution at Columbus.

One other illustration to show the peculiar contrast between the governor's sympathetic nature and his hard fighting abilities when aroused, an illustration which involves the biggest single battle in which the governor has been engaged, namely, his fight with the liability insurance companies.

Liability insurance companies insure employers against loss through suits for damages instituted by injured employees or the dependents of killed employees. The employer pays insurance premiums. The liability company's business is to fight any or all damage claims against him. Naturally, since liability insurance is a private business, the fighting of damage claims is based on business instead of sentiment. The insurance company attorneys and agents and investigators become callous. The better bargains they drive for their company the greater ultimately will be their reward. So when a workman is killed in his factory, it is the business of the liability company to "settle" with the family for the lowest amount possible. The company will usually offer a small sum to avoid a suit for damages. The family must accept or sue. A suit means usually two or three years of delay in the courts. Suits have been known to drag for 20 years. And the family's attorney ultimately will receive from one-third to one-half of the final reward. So the family usually settles for what the insurance company is willing to pay.

This was the situation which Gov. Cox faced when he began his duties. There was a workmen's compensation law on the statutes which provided that the state might act as a compensator for those injured or killed in industrial accidents. Under this system employers who wanted to could pay their premiums to the state instead of to the private liability companies and the state would then settle with the victims. Gov. Cox found that this system alleviated conditions only in a slight degree. He studied the situation carefully and decided that the only remedy was virtually to eliminate private business when it came to settling for human injuries and death, and to have the state step in as general mediator.

His decision meant practically the elimination of the private liability companies and—war. This war began early in the Cox administration. It is still on. The governor has won but he hasn't been able to stop the fighting. The liability companies dislodged from one stronghold, keep retreating to another. Their first big maneuver was to attempt to use the initiative and referendum to defeat the compulsory workmen's compensation act, the act which played havoc with their profits. The governor began a campaign to show that the initiative and referendum petitions, circulated by the liability companies to defeat the compensation act, were fraudulent. Ultimately the petitions were held fraudulent and rejected by the secretary of state, who was sustained by the Supreme Court. The contests over the validity of the petitions, however, was intensely bitter. In it the liability companies fought behind a central organization, known as The Ohio Equity League. Now even though the new compensation law has been in operation for several months, the war is not over. The liability people regard the governor as their enemy. They will conquer him ultimately if they can.

Such is the striking contrast of characteristics displayed by the governor of Ohio. He is gentle in his sympathy with victims of illness or trouble or disaster, but a grim, uncompromising fighter whenever he believes that selfish interest is his adversary. Probably a fighter who felt less deeply might be a less relentless foe. Anyway, the Cox career will be one interesting to observe, because of this strange mixture of gentleness and strength, of kindness and daring, of intense sympathy and pugnacious, fighting ability.

Coaches and crews alike, while confident, predict a close contest in each event and if the weather and water conditions are favorable new records for the course are not unlikely.

Mitla is a contraction or corruption of the word Mitlan, meaning "the place of Death." The modern village and the ancient ruins occupy the center of an arid plain or valley, surrounded on all sides by equally arid hills, on the highest summit of which are the well-preserved remains of a great fortress whose walls are of a rough construction and without ornament of any kind. Nearly in the center of the plain five great groups of buildings stand out completely exposed. Many of them are now nearly shapeless mounds and masses of ruins. Two great groups, however, are in comparatively perfect preservation, a third is incorporated with an old church, and a fourth, the great sacrificial mound, is surrounded by the ruins of a very ancient church.

SMALL INCREASE IN UTILITIES CONCERNS

Washington Water Company Valuation Remains Unchanged—Cleveland and Buffalo Transit Company Nearly Trebled—Other Increases.

Columbus, Ohio, June 25.—Only a slight increase was made in aggregate taxable valuations of water-works, artificial gas, pipe line and union depot companies in Ohio over their valuation of 1913, according to the report of the state tax commission made public today.

Aggregate valuations of water transportation companies were more than doubled solely because of increases of two companies. The Cleveland and Buffalo Transit company are valued at $956,920 this year, and only $321,660 last year. The Pennsylvania-Ontario Transportation company was valued this year at $181,240 and last year at only $85,820.

Following are a few of the valuations:

Chillicothe Gas, Light and Water Company—1914, $185,000; 1913, $185,000.
Hamilton Utilities Co.—1914, $369,560; 1913, $276,760.
Massillon Water Supply Co.—1914, $300,000; 1913, $300,000.
Washington Water Co.—1914, $100,000; 1913, $100,000.
Mahoning Valley Water Co.—1914, $675,850; 1913, $675,850.
Youngstown Heating Co.—1914, $69,900; 1913, $68,400.
Following are the aggregate valuations of different classes of utilities as announced today:
Artificial gas companies—1914, $1,203,350; 1913, $1,174,200.
Water works companies—1914, $4,353,180; 1913, $4,283,120.
Pipe line companies—1914, $36,738,510; 1913, $36,607,930.
Water transportation companies—1914, $1,352,860; 1913, $630,280.
Union depot companies—1914, $3,275,540; 1913, $3,209,850.

HAS HAD SPECTACULAR CAREER

Is World Traveler and Has Experienced Adventures in All Climates. Lecture Here Will Be Dramatic Recital of His Life Under the Aurora Borealis—Story is Replete With Accounts of Hairbreadth Escapes and Geographic Information.

One of the most interesting men on the Lyceum and Chautauqua platforms of the present day is Dr. Lincoln Wirt, the explorer, lecturer and author, into whose life has been crammed more of nerve-tingling adventure than most men ever dream of. A world traveler, he has roughed it with Eskimos of the frozen north and lolled at ease at the court of King Chululungkorn of Siam, his lectures on "The Conquest of the Arctic" and "Under the Southern Cross" being extraordinary recitals of personal service in out-of-the-way parts of the world.

In 1897 Mr. Wirt was sent to Alaska as superintendent of Congregational church work. Here he established churches at Nome, Valdez and Douglas, as well as hospitals and libraries in other places. While thus engaged he was appointed territorial superintendent of education by the United States government, founding the public schools which are today farthest north.

His lecture founded on his experiences in the Arctic constitutes one of the most fascinating contributions to the literature of the platform. His interpretations of Eskimo life, and the story of his dogs, is absolutely unique. Soul-stirring is his recital of his flight during the long night of an Arctic winter in quest of relief for his sick, ice-imprisoned companions; the almost human intelligence of his Eskimo dogs; the Igloo village never before visited by the white men; the strange customs, fetish dances and heathenish orgies of the Eskimo; the treachery of false guides; the awful silence and loneliness; the auroral splendors; his study of Arctic bird and animal life; the escape from wolves; the attack of a whale while at sea in an open kayak, and countless other things which go to make up one of the most extraordinary lectures extant.

Unlike many men who have passed through unusual experiences, but are unable to make them real to their listeners, Dr. Wirt is an exceptional lecturer, having a marked facility of expression and a dramatic instinct which enables him to impart a thrill of romance to his story of hardship and endeavor. Not only are his lectures great entertainments, but they are worth while contributions to the understanding of present-day problems in Alaska and appreciation of its great possibilities.

Educators the country over have given the most enthusiastic commendation to the work of Dr. Wirt upon the lecture platform, and it is a matter of congratulation that our people are to have an opportunity of hearing him here during the coming Chautauqua, when his lecture on "The Conquest of the Arctic" will be given. Alaska and her resources loom large in the public prints of today as interesting topics of current news, and Dr. Wirt's coming will be hailed as an unusual opportunity of learning at first hand much of interest concerning our northern possessions from the man best qualified of all our platform speakers to impart that information.

Cooling showers and the appearance on the market of watermelons, Thursday, acted as a balm to the heat soaked and summer sick natives, who through this encouraging influence have, for the most part, taken a new lease on life and are ready to concede that it isn't such a tough proposition after all.

Pretty and inviting is the spectacle of huge pyramids of gorgeously green watermelons banked high in front of the grocery stores and the fact that they are imported from Georgia is taken only as an indication that the home grown crop will be ready in about four weeks. The watermelons were received through the Dahl-Millikan company and are of good size, excellent grade and full maturity. They are selling at 25c, 30c and 35c. Canteloupes this season are of the best grade that has been on the market in years and stocks are being depleted by eager purchasers.

WATER SPOUTS THREATEN SAFETY

Mrs. W. B. Gage writes from the summer home of her brother, Mr. Alben Pearson, at Lake Okoboji, Ia., of the era of terrific storms in that locality.

Two water spouts have threatened inundation, the water coming up to the floor of their cottage, although the cottage is raised on piers. Their dock, raised a number of feet above the lake, is the only one not under water.

OFFICERS REPORT GROUND UNFAVORABLE

Word has been received from Col. B. L. Barger that Capt. Monypeny and Lieut. Lawlor have reported unfavorable on the proposed route of march for the 4th regiment, which was to march from this city to Chillicothe for camp in August.

A meeting of the field staff and regimental officers has been called for Sunday, when a solution to the problem is to be worked out.

EXPERIENCE MEETING

The ladies of the Guild of the Presbyterian church held their dollar experience meeting at the time of the fortnightly Kensington at the home of Mrs. J. H. Williams.

Over fifty dollars was turned into the treasury, the ladies giving interesting accounts of the way in which their dollars had been earned.

Assisting Mrs. Williams as the afternoon's hostesses were Mesdames Fitzgerald, Probasco, Hall, Sprenger, Jess Persinger, Misses Bell Crooks and Fannie Persinger.

A summer refection was served during the pleasurable social afternoon.

Worse Than Retribution.

"Pa, is retribution the worst thing a man can have?"

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Bright's Disease. Bright's disease is a silent, hardworking enemy, and the victim himself may not know that he has it until it has gone so far that he is incurable. It is easily detected by a test of the urine, and if it is caught in its beginning its destructive force can be held to a minimum throughout the natural life of the victim. When urinalysis shows an excess of uric acid and albumen the presence of Bright's disease is determined, but both the albumen and the uric acid may be decreased by the adoption of an intelligent diet, the selection and consumption of those foods that yield the least of these two elements. Such foods are grains, fresh and dried fruits and fresh vegetables. Meats should be let alone, because they favor the increase of uric acid, and there are some vegetables, like asparagus and mushrooms, that contain more uric acid than meat.
